REGATTA WATER BALLET STARS REHEARSE

Kelowna sprites who will perform in the nightly water ballet during the 62nd annual Regatta Aug. 7 to 10, line up here for rehearsal at the Aquatic Pool. They are under instruction of director Jan Woods. Not all the ballet performers are here. Some have to work during the day and rehearse at night. All of the girls are from Kelowna and district. The water ballet is regarded by Regatta fans as being one of the most attractive items on the program, and consists of a dazzling display of aqua choreog-

Mail Mountain Keeps Growing

HOW TO MARK POSTAL WEEK

TORONTO (CP) — The following advertisement appeared in Friday's personal column in The Telegram.

"Celebrate National Postal Appreciation week. As soon as the mail strike ends, mail a concrete block to everyone you know. There will never be another mail strike."

Tem Peacock, 27-year-old advertising copywriter, said he wrote the advertisement because he was "just fed up and had to do something."

"There are not many ways a citizen can vent his disapproval. So I wrote this ad to get them a bit mad."

Seven Million Items Trapped And No Sign Of Strike's End

OTTAWA (CP) — The nationwide postal shutdown, now in its second day, has trapped nearly 7,000,000 pieces of mail in post offices across the country.

The post office department spokesman today gave this statistical account of the effects of the strike:

—Officials estimate there are about 5,500,000 items of first-class mail stuck in post offices, 1,000,000 third-class and some 270,000 parcels.

—Out of 415 post offices, 380 have employees on strike.

—The department says about 19,900 employees are on strike—this compares with a total union membership of some 24,000, some of who are on vacation.

Mediation talks to end the strike are adjourned until Sunday. The walkout began at 5 a.m. EDT Thursday.

William Houle, co-chairman of the Council of Postal Unions, has termed the strike "a fight to the finish."

The only finish as he sees it is a satisfactory pay and working-condition offer by the government. Mediation talks to this resume under Judge Rene Lippe at 3 p.m. Sunday.

U.S. Trims Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (CP) — The House of Representatives passed a $1,900,000,000 foreign aid authorization bill Thursday night after trimming it to the lowest amount in the U.S. aid program's 20-year history.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

The total is $967,000,000 under the administration's budget request of $2,961,000,000 for fiscal 1969.

Sleeper cuts are expected when the program's companion money bill goes before a Congress attempting to slice the U.S. budget deficit.

The House action was a stunning setback for President Johnson. He had issued a special appeal to Congress Wednesday not to go beyond nearly $600,000,000 cut by the foreign affairs committee.

Before passing the bill, the House wrote in language directing the president to negotiate with Israel for the sale of 50 F-4 Phantom jet fighters.

Other amendments provided that no grants, sales or loans shall be made under the military assistance program for purchase of sophisticated weapons such as jet planes by less developed countries.

INCREASE THEIR STAFF

In British Columbia companies offering alternative methods of communications were so swamped with business that they had to call in extra staff. People turned to the telephone, telephone, air express, delivery truck, taxi and U.S. mail services.

B.C. Telephone Co. reported a 10 per cent increase in calls originating in the province while both CN and CP Telecommunications reported landslide increases in the number of messages and money wires.

KELOWNA STATIC

A static situation exists at the Kelowna Post Office today where no change is reported from Thursday.

Strikers continue to circle the building carrying placards.

Only a few tourists are reported to be mailing items—a few post cards.

The lobby of the Kelowna Post Office is open to the public but there is no wicket service.

A spokesman said there is a basket underneath the mail slot which catches the few cards or letters coming in, and that is where they remain, he said.

Mr. Houle said this strike is much better organized than the 1965 postal strike that hit Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia. Most of some 12,000 workers returned to their jobs within a week but Montreal employees remained out for 16 days.

A strike was averted at the last moment in 1966 when a mediator rung out a settlement granting a 25-cents-an-hour wage increase.

Mr. Houle is reluctant to predict how long the strike may last. "That's up to the government," he says.

A post office spokesman agreed that "it's a pretty solid strike."

Substitute mailing operations sprang up across Canada, ranging from student letter-carrier operations in Edmonton to special airline shipments.

SOME STAY OPEN

A department spokesman said the only offices remaining open were at Clarendon, Nfld., Chandler and Coaticook in Quebec, Carleton Place, Ont., two offices in Manitoba, eight in Saskatchewan and possibly a few in Alberta.

The largest office still open appeared to be at North Battleford, Sask. He assumed the other open offices employed no union members.

Thursday's walkout followed rejection by the unions Wednesday of a 15-cent-an-hour government wage offer in a 14-month contract. They want 75 cents more an hour and improved working conditions. A senior postal clerk now gets $2.75 an hour.

Mr. Houle said this strike is month but left the date open.

The vote had followed rejection of the chairman's report of a conciliation board recommending an increase of 70 cents an hour over two years, bringing the wage of general elevator laborers to $3 an hour from $2.30.

DEMANDED RAISE

When negotiations broke off, the union was demanding $1.25 in a one-year contract while the companies offered 42 cents over two years. The union later modified its demand to $1.25 over two years.

The immediate effect of the strike was a railway announcement that grain shipments to the Lakehead from the Prairies were embargoed. There is no one to load the boxcars at the terminals.

The strike comes in the final weeks of the crop year when many farmers try to move as much grain as possible to make room for the 1968 crop.

Bennett And Bank President Pop Up With Some Surprises

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett and the president of the new Bank of British Columbia popped a couple of surprise announcements Thursday at the bank's official opening.

The premier announced provincial government plans to build a skyscraper in downtown Vancouver that will house the bank as well as provincial offices.

He described plans for "the tallest and finest building in Canada"—taller than the 740-foot Toronto-Dominion Centre in Toronto which is 56 stories.

The second unexpected development was the announcement by Albert Hall, president of the new bank, that a Toronto office had been opened simultaneously Thursday.

This outlet will provide day-to-day information on eastern and international markets and provide the Bank of B.C. with an entry into the eastern money market which should prove very beneficial," said Mr. Hall.

The Toronto office, which had not been anticipated until some time next year, will serve administrative only and will not accept deposits in competition with established banks.

Mr. Bennett, who has been battling for a B.C.-based bank since 1964, became the first depositor. He was presented with a gold passbook by Mr. Hall.

When the bank received its certificate from the federal government last year, 11,700 shareholders had subscribed a total of $12,800,000. The premier had hoped for an initial subscription of $15,000,000.

Mr. Bennett said he would be called in March for excavation of the new provincial government building.

Czechs Defend Reform Program

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's liberal Communist regime will hold talks with leaders of other European Communist parties Saturday, the official news agency CTK reported today.

The agency did not identify the parties, but the meetings would apparently allow the Czechoslovaks to make a direct defense of their reform program.

The announcement came as the Soviet Union was pledging help to Czechoslovak hard-liners, including the 35,000-man People's Militia, an armed force that has backed Antonin Novotny, the ousted Stalinist ruler. Liberals here have demanded the militia's dissolution.

It also coincided with an East German exhortation to Czechoslovak old-liners to "boldly counterattack" the revisionist and anti-Socialist forces.

The brief CTK dispatch was the first word on such a meeting following rumors that Czechoslovak party chief Alexander Dubcek would meet with the Soviet party's secretary-general, Leonid I. Brezhnev, in the near future.

President Tito of Yugoslavia was also expected for a visit here, apparently following the Dubcek-Brezhnev meetings.

DEFEND PROCESS

The announcement came shortly after the Czechoslovak party's central committee went into session to discuss a decision by the Dubcek leadership to defend to the end the liberalization process.

Prague has rejected the Soviet idea of holding a summit conference on Czechoslovakia, but voiced readiness to discuss its new course in bilateral talks.

The first foreign leader to arrive was Waldeck Rochet, secretary-general of the French Communist party, a Prague backer.

The French, Italian, British, Belgian and Austrian Communists have joined the regimes of Romania and Yugoslavia in expressions of confidence in the new Czechoslovak course.

Huge Oil Strike Seen As Booster For Alaska

JUNEAU (AP) — Governor Walter J. Hickel sees the discovery of oil in Alaska's Arctic region as a key unlocking the state's vast potential and a stabilizer of its economy.

"It's tremendous," the governor kept saying Thursday after hearing that reserves estimated by oil experts at 5,000,000,000 to 10,000,000,000 barrels had been found in the Prudhoe Bay area along Alaska's Arctic coast.

The area, some 39 miles north of Fairbanks, is a region long eyed with anticipation by petroleum geologists.

The U.S. Navy's Petroleum Reserve No. 4 lies to the west of the Atlantic Richfield-Humble discovery, in an area where the temperature merely toys with the freezing point—even during the long summer days when the Arctic sun never gets below the horizon.

MAIL ITS POTENTIAL

Degolyer and MacNaughton, a Dallas oil consulting firm, said the new discovery has the potential of developing into one of the world's largest fields.

Located on a 90,000-acre block of federally-leased land, the new discovery apparently confirms what petroleum geologists have long thought, that the Arctic slope is a vast storehouse of oil and gas.

Governor Hickel feels the oil income from the huge federal holdings on the North Slope could be used to meet native demands for $500,000,000 to drop claims blocking the state's efforts to select the 103,000-acre parcels promised by the statehood act.

He also sees it as possibly leading to the elimination of state income taxes, which brought in $31,000,000 in the last fiscal year.

Alaska, which ranks 10th among the 32 oil-producing states, received direct income from oil and gas production taxes, lease bonuses, royalties and rentals of more than $40,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30. The state's general fund budget for the year was $104,000,000.

The governor listed as his first priority the extension of the federally-owned Alaska railway from its northern terminus at Fairbanks the remaining 400 miles to the north coast.

Besides relieving the oil industry of the immediate need of building a $400,000 pipeline to get the oil to ice-free tide-water, the railway, he said, would provide a "two-way haul" to open up thousands of square miles of unexplored wilderness.

"We haven't even begun to tap the mineral potential up there," Hickel said.

Biafran Leader Proposes Routes For Mercy Cargoes

ABA, Biafra (AP) — Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, leader of secessionist Biafra in Nigeria's civil war, said Thursday his government has proposed two land corridors for the transport of food to starving Biafrans.

"First supplies could be sent through the River Niger up to Omuia (south of Onitsha) where they can be discharged direct into Biafra," he said. "Ocean-going vessels could carry their cargoes to the estuary of the River Niger."

"Alternatively, Port Harcourt and the road to Igbira (30 miles north of Port Harcourt) as well as the channels leading to Port Harcourt should be demilitarized up to 10 miles on both flanks (outside shelling range) and should remain so for the duration of the war."

But Ojukwu reiterated that the "quickest and most realistic" means of sending relief to his besieged territory is by air.

Talking to foreign correspondents, he repeated his offer to set aside an airport for a daylight airlift under supervision of relief agencies.

The Nigerian federal government in Lagos contends that direct flights would allow the Biafrans to get arms disguised as food, a charge Ojukwu estimated that 1,750,000 persons are destitute in Biafra but declared that his rebel state is not finished militarily or otherwise.

Ojukwu said the road corridor proposed by Lagos was blocked by fallen bridges and choked channels, and that clearing them would give federal forces a clear path to what is left of Biafran territory.

He also repeated charges that food which found its way to Biafra through Nigeria was poisoned.

Parliament May Act In Mail Strike

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said today it is possible Parliament will be summoned to end the postal strike but he does not yet regard such a step as likely. He told reporters after a cabinet meeting that he hopes the strike "will be settled quickly through negotiations."

Cuban Exiles Blamed In L.A. Bombings

LOS ANGELES (Reuters) — Five offices of foreign firms were damaged by bomb explosions here early today in what appeared to be a co-ordinated effort by Cuban exiles. No one was injured in the explosions, which occurred after midnight.

Rhodesian Forces Battle Guerrillas

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Rhodesian security forces were engaged in a running battle today with African guerrillas in the Zambezi Valley, a government communiqué said. BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli reconnaissance jets were spotted over the Gulf of Cairo about four weeks ago, but Egyptian sources said today. Two Egyptian defense officials have been charged with a failed effort to identify the planes, the sources said. Their names and the sentences are not known.

SIU 'Gift' To Democrats On Banks Case Alleged

NEW YORK (CP) — The Wall Street Journal says the Securities International Union gave $100,000 to the Democratic party campaign fund after U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk rejected a Canadian appeal to allow the extradition of Hal C. Banks to Canada to serve a five-year prison term.

The financial newspaper says in a main-column front-page story that half the money was earmarked for the campaign of Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey, who is running for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Rusk has denied any pressure was put on him to quash the extradition of Banks, who jumped bail in Canada to avoid prison on conviction for hiring goons to beat up a rival labor leader.

Banks formerly headed the Canadian district of the SIU. The newspaper says the extradition case could "seriously embarrass" Humphrey in his race for the White House.

The newspaper says in a Washington story by staff writer Jeff Landauer:

"At the informal hearing in the secretary of state's office, Canada's lawyer sought Banks' return. But Secretary Rusk, rejecting the conclusions of his legal adviser and overruling a U.S. commissioner, declined to issue an extradition warrant. To surrender Banks, then in federal custody, would have violated 'my own sense of old-fashioned justice,' Rusk says. Instead, the secretary let Banks go free. He also rejected a Canadian appeal for international arbitration of the dispute."

NO RECOMMENDATIONS

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP) — A coroner's jury Thursday made no recommendations after investigating the death of Col. R. W. Potts of the Canadian Forces Base here in a car-train collision July 1. The jury attached no blame in the death of the 46-year-old base commander.

HAL BANKS ... bad for Humphrey

T. C. Douglas Not Down Yet

REGINA (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national New Democratic party leader, told delegates at the Saskatchewan NDP annual convention Thursday he hasn't given up hope of capturing a federal seat.

"Don't count on my not going back to the House of Commons," he said.

Mr. Douglas, defeated in the Vancouver riding of Burnaby-Seymour in the June 26 federal election, said at the opening of the three-day convention the NDP is "still a vital and living force in the political life of Canada."

He said the party's capture of six federal seats in Saskatchewan had offset losses in Ontario and British Columbia. All 13 seats in the province were held by Progressives. Conservatives lost 11 to 25.

Although he had indicated he would step down as NDP national leader, he told delegates Thursday the party had asked him to stay on until July, 1969.

Humphrey Names Ted

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey has indicated strongly that he desires Senator Edward M. Kennedy as his running mate if he wins the Democratic presidential nomination, the New York Times says.

Humphrey said in an interview in Washington Thursday that he had heard reports that the Massachusetts senator would neither seek nor accept the vice-presidential nomination, the newspaper says.

It quotes Humphrey as saying: "I have no reason to believe that I hope it's not true. I have the highest regard for him."

The report said the vice-president praised Kennedy as "a fine man, able, capable."

Humphrey added that he expects to meet with Kennedy in a few days, the newspaper says, and that he had talked with Theodore C. Sorensen, a Kennedy adviser, and Stephen Smith, Kennedy's brother-in-law, during a New York visit Wednesday.

Turner Stands Ground On Criminal Code Bill

Justice Minister Turner will take his arguments for breaking up the Criminal Code revision bill into sections to the cabinet and the Liberal caucus. One of the chief men he will have to convince is Prime Minister Trudeau, his predecessor in the justice department, who still favors putting the bill through Parliament as a single item. Mr. Turner said in an interview Thursday he and Mr. Trudeau "share our convictions" about the proposals to change laws relating to such diverse subjects as abortion, homosexual conduct and control of firearms. Whether the changes would be presented to Parliament as a single item or broken down into several separate bills is "a matter of tactics or strategy," Mr. Turner said.

South Africa said Thursday it had sold "substantial amounts" of newly-mined gold on the free market and to central banks without upsetting prices. Entry of the new gold into the market was regarded as a victory for the recently established two-tier system of gold prices and for attempts to maintain confidence in the stability of the U.S. dollar. Finance Minister Nicolaas Diederichs did not say how much gold had been sold.

Jean-Eudes Dube, veterans affairs minister, said in Saint John, N.B., his department has a "series of possibilities" under review to deal with a shortage of Veterans Land Act funds. Mr. Dube's comment followed reports that the $7,500,000 VLA allocation for the Atlantic provinces in the current fiscal year has been all but exhausted by mortgage applications.

Col. Abdel-Razak Al-Nayef formed a 26-man cabinet in Iraq Thursday night, replacing the government of Lt.-Gen. Ta her Yehia, toppled in a military coup Wednesday. Baghdad radio announced the make-up of the cabinet under the new premier following the "bloodless" coup. Ahmed Hassan el Bakr was named president Wednesday in succession to Abdel Aref, who was exiled and flew to London soon after army units moved against his regime.

A British do-it-yourself machine to extract protein from green leaves has been offered as an aid in feeding the world's hungry. Norma W. Pirie, head of the biochemistry department at Rothamsted experimental station said his machine could extract 40 pounds of pure protein from one ton of ordinary leaves such as clover, wheat or mustard. It could, he said, fill the needs of 60,000 people a year. Such machines, it was suggested, could be set up in areas of protein famine, using locally grown leaf crops, and avoiding the need for transport and a distributing network.

An Alberta woman, who said she learned a system to defraud banks from a newspaper, was sentenced to six months in a reformatory when she pleaded guilty to seven charges of fraud in London, Ont., magistrates' court Thursday. Donna June Laferte, of Winterburn, defrauded banks in London, Brantford and Port Arthur of about $3,000. Assistant Crown Attorney John McGarry said Mrs. Laferte learned the system while working as a bank teller but the woman said she read how to do it in a newspaper.

Vivian Ayoungman, 21, a University of Calgary student from the Blackfoot Reserve at Gleichen, was chosen Alberta Indian princess. The crowning climax of Louis Riel Day, held in Edmonton for the first time this year.

Former president Dwight D. Eisenhower endorsed his former vice-president, Richard M. Nixon, Thursday for the Republican presidential nomination. At a press conference held with a limited number of reporters at Walter Reed Army Hospital, where he is recuperating from a serious heart attack, the U.S. Army general recalled his standard practice over the years has been to refrain from endorsing any candidate until that candidate has been nominated by convention or primary. "I think however, that this is the exception," he said.

Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey and President Marcel Papin of the Confederation National Trade Unions, the Montreal-based labor organization, held what they called a fruitful meeting Thursday. It was a precedent-setting visit—the first by a labor minister to the CNTU—with much of the chat about controversial labor Bill C-186. Mr. Mackasey last week dropped in on President Donald MacDonald of the 1,500,000-member Canadian Labor Congress, powerful rival of the 225,000-member CNTU.

The forces of Ald. Julia Kiniski have covered up a naughty painting in Sue's Salon, set up outside city hall for Klondike Days, the city's annual summer festival. The 27-by-36-inch painting was of a nude woman. "She's completely nude," said Ald. Kiniski. "There's a cash register beside her and a bottle of liquor and cigars. What do you take from that? A thing like that is not to be exposed in a place like city hall. It's a disgrace. The painting got a quick cover-up painting on instructions from the mayor but it looked like a cross between a bathing suit and old style underwear. This morning the painting was covered by a tarpaulin.

Kitimat Halt Under Debate

KITIMAT, B.C. (CP) — Talks aimed at ending a work stoppage that has halted construction of a $100,000,000 pulp mill near this northern coastal community were to be held in Vancouver today.

Ben Ginter, president of Ginter Construction Ltd., was to meet in Vancouver with officials of the Provincial Building Trades Union Council after a non-union crew Mr. Ginter had hired walked off the job Thursday.

The Prince George Industrialist had hired the crew to replace men supplied by the International Union of Operating Engineers, who left their jobs last week to protest travel allowances.

The union claimed the non-union men walked off the job after it told them of difficulties on the job. Mr. Ginter said the replacements were being threatened by union men.

Gas Enforces Akron Curfew

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Police used tear gas to break up some groups of youths as they enforced an overnight curfew in a Negro section that was the scene of widespread looting the previous night.

The arrests totalled 123 persons. Almost all arrested were Negroes. Forty-two persons were arrested Wednesday night. The city became quiet early today as National Guard troops helped police patrol the streets. A steady rain lasted for several hours Thursday night.

Police used tear gas in arresting about 40 young people as curfew violators Thursday night at the new Afro-American Liberation Front, a storefront club on Wooster Avenue.

Police ordered the youths to leave the clubhouse, but they answered that they thought the curfew order simply meant they had to be off the streets from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m.

USE TEAR GAS

The police, with deputies and guardsmen assisting, then broke windows and tossed tear gas inside. The youths were taken from the clubhouse into police vans.

Reporters on the scene said some were clubbed with nightsticks, but police denied that anyone was clubbed.

Two young men were cut by glass and treated at hospital. A Negro leader, Vernon Odum, executive director of the Akron Urban League, criticized what he called "extensive" use of tear gas by police Wednesday night. He said tear gas was thrown indiscriminately into the league's headquarters and a nearby record shop.

Police Chief Harry Widdon said tear gas was "vital to break up disturbances."

Ontario Seizes Records Of Canada Foundation

OTTAWA (CP) — Walter Herbert, director of the Canada Foundation—a non-profit agency engaged in promoting public interest in the arts—said here the Ontario government has seized foundation records going back 25 years.

Mr. Herbert, 67, who told The Canadian Press he has no idea why a member of the Carleton County sheriff's office invaded his agency's premises about three weeks ago, has been operating the privately-financed agency almost single-handed since 1943, under a federal charter.

"The trouble with Queen's Park," said Mr. Herbert, "began about a year ago."

"At that time we had a surprising and arrogant demand from the public trustee in Toronto" for an accounting of the foundation's affairs from the beginning of its operations.

"About three weeks ago—I think it was June 25—someone came and demanded our records. He showed identification from the sheriff's office."

Mr. Herbert said he was absent at the time and that his secretary—the only other full-time employee of the foundation—handed over the books.

Mr. Herbert, a member of the senate of Carleton University here, said: "They took a weird selection of things, including a file on Carleton's honorary degrees."

"They even seized a file I had on Canadian library associations, financial records at random, minute books and our cash box containing about $5 and some stamps."

Admittedly upset by the "arrogance of those Queen's Park people," Mr. Herbert was concerned that their action could "destroy a pretty useful sort of thing."

He described the foundation's role as that of a cultural information service, filling a demand throughout the world for information on cultural happenings in Canada.

ACTS FOR COUNCIL
Mr. Herbert said he also acts "on a contract basis" for the Canada Council, helping with the assessment of candidates for council grants.

He said the foundation operates on a budget of less than $20,000 and that his present salary of $8,400 a year is the most he ever took out of the agency.

Walter Herbert grew up in Edmonton and worked for several Canadian newspapers including the now defunct Edmonton Bulletin and The Free Press and The Tribune in Winnipeg before coming to Ottawa before the Second World War as secretary of the National Liberal Federation.

During the war he was assistant director of public information under the late Herbert Lash.

For several years the late Nik Cavell, at that time director of Canada's Colombo Plan and later Canadian ambassador to Pakistan, acted as foundation president.

Early today, Carleton County Deputy Sheriff C. K. McBain confirmed the seizure at the foundation offices. "I was just acting on orders of the public trustee," the deputy said in an interview.

Irrigation Plan Gains $300,000

A $300,000 supplementary cost for the project was approved this week by the federal government for an irrigation project in Winfield-Okanagan Centre. The project, originally estimated at $1,500,000, will install 28 miles of irrigation pipelines and construct a dam on Vernon Creek, five miles east of Winfield.

The Winfield and Okanagan Centre Irrigation District began the project two years ago and all that remains to be done now is five miles of the main pipeline and the dam. The source of water is Beaver Lake with the intake at Vernon Creek.

Essentially what is being done is replacing wood pipelines with steel and replacing a 50-year-old inadequate dam with a new one.

The system will provide a more reliable water supply to some 2,000 acres of land planted mainly to fruit trees. All lateral lines have been completed.

Chairman of the water system is Melvan Kawano, Okanagan Centre Road. Project manager is Felix Menz of Westbank. The project is providing work for 20 men with heavy equipment being rented.

The Winfield-Okanagan Centre project was one of three receiving federal government approval this week.

Jean Marchand, federal forestry and rural development minister, announced supplementary funds totalling $558,000 of which the federal share is $167,000.

A control dam in the Naramata Irrigation System is to be rebuilt and additional work is necessary to complete the Sion Improvement District Water System.

The Sion project has drilled wells providing irrigation and domestic water to almost 1,000 acres. All three projects are being implemented by the British Columbia Water Resources Service.

Okanagan Fruit Prospects Continuing To Look Good

An optimistic note for Okanagan fruit prospects has been sounded by the B.C. department of agriculture.

Hot, dry weather has insured the harvesting of excellent size, high quality cherries. Harvesting of Lamberts in the Kelowna area started Monday, while further south in the Oliver-Osoyoos area, harvest is nearly complete. Size and quality has been excellent but indications are earlier estimates were optimistic. There has been no rain splitting to date. Harvest of sour cherries has commenced in the early districts. The apricot harvest is under way in southern areas and harvest of canning varieties will start shortly. The crop is light and the quality good.

The peach harvest will commence in the south in a week, while farther north the crop is heavier and making good growth.

A good crop of prunes is reported in all districts with some drop continuing. Bartlett pears are being thinned with a good crop reported making favorable growth.

In the south yellow transparent apples are being harvested. Main crop varieties are making good growth in spite of some concern about possible large size McIntoshes.

Grape vines are growing well, but heavy shedding may reduce output, although berries may be sufficiently large to make up for the loss.

Harvesting of cucumbers is under way, while tomatoes will be later because of cool growing conditions early in the season. The same reason is given for a late pepper crop. Cabbage harvesting has begun, with heavy supplies of good quality cabbage reported. Early potatoes are being harvested and results are promising. The onion yield will top 1967 figures. High pea yields are expected because of good growing conditions. Corn growth delayed because of cool growing conditions early in the season has improved.

Control measures have been applied to stem codling moth activity. Mites are being controlled. South Okanagan growers are using aircraft to spray corn for corn ear worm.

Mrs. Willis Was Resident Of District Since 1909

Funeral service will be held Friday for Mrs. Grace Madeleine Willis, 84, of Lakeshore Road, Okanagan Mission, who died Wednesday.

Born in Scarborough, Yorkshire, she came to the Okanagan in 1909 joining her brother, Harry Hudson, who was the valley's first photographer. In 1913 she married the late Harold Arthur Willis.

In 1919 the couple bought the Mitchell place, four miles south of Okanagan Mission on the lakeshore, where they operated a ranch until 1924 when they moved into Okanagan Mission. They later moved to Kelowna where Mr. Willis was engaged in the fruit industry.

In 1913 they purchased the old Windsor place, three miles south of Okanagan Mission and returned to fruit farming. In 1952 they sold Sylvan Heights and retired to the current address.

Mrs. Willis was known for her many water color paintings of the Okanagan area. She is survived by two daughters, Mary Erica (Mrs. James Leach), Kelowna, and Patricia Marjorie, London.

Funeral service will be held from St. Andrew's Anglican Church, Okanagan Mission, at 11 a.m., with Rev. R. R. Griffiths officiating. Burial will be in the Okanagan Mission cemetery.

Man Arrested In Vancouver Fined In City Court Today

A Kelowna man was arrested in Vancouver and brought here to answer a speeding charge in magistrate's court today.

Ron Lowon pleaded guilty and was fined $30. The RCMP prosecutor said Lowon was clocked May 22, doing 65 in a 50 mph zone. When police went to serve the summons, he was not at the address given. A warrant was issued which led to his arrest.

Daniel Gilbert Marty, Kelowna, was sentenced to six months definite and two years less a day indefinite, on each of four counts of breaking, entering and theft and six months on each of three counts of theft of an auto. All sentences are concurrent, so he will serve a total of six months definite.

Magistrate D. M. White said he would recommend the sentence be served at the Haney Correctional Institute.

Marty pleaded guilty a week ago to break-ins at the Rutland Secondary School Feb. 11; the Rutland Post Office Feb. 25; the Kelowna Golf and Country Club Feb. 25 and the Woodside Grocery in Winfield March 23.

Also to theft of a 1962 car March 22 from Carter Motors; a 1965 car from J. D. Montooth and a 1961 car from Ernie Cowan March 23. All were recovered.

Magistrate White said in passing sentence, some of the world's greatest men have had problems similar to Marty's and I have been able to lead successful lives.

He warned the accused his future was his own responsibility and depended on his response to treatment and his respect for authority and society.

M. L. R. 3 failed in a bid to defend himself on a charge of disobeying a traffic control signal.

Kroger, a taxi driver, parked on Harker Avenue July 1 at Kelowna Thursday were $9 and $10. He was observed by a police officer with $8 and $10 on the same date a year ago.

UNSETTLED weather is the prediction made for the Okanagan Saturday.

Skins should clear tonight and be sunny Saturday morning but become cloudy with a few showers in the afternoon. Clearing is expected again Saturday evening.

Little change in temperature is forecast with a low tonight of 52 and high Saturday of 74. Winds light, occasionally north and gusty in showers.

The low and high recorded in Kelowna Thursday were 59 and 74 with all inches of rain, compared with 58 and 74 on the same date a year ago.

BRIDGE OPENED 10 YEARS TODAY

Boy, that's lucky — we're first in line for the ferry. What's that, you say there's a bridge now? This scene, at the old west side ferry landing, was common in the years up to mid-July 1958. The Okanagan Lake bridge was officially opened 10 years ago today by Princess Margaret, ending many years of enjoyable, but time-consuming ferry trips across the water. The old ferry in the background, the Lequime, is being converted for commercial use and is docked temporarily on the west side. (Courier Photo)

Kelowna Draws Visitors From Foreign Countries

Just how popular is Canada's vacation paradise as an international tourist attraction? A check of the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce guest book and comments from chamber of commerce manager Bill Stevenson show how popular the central Okanagan city is with not only Canadian and American tourists, but vacationers from overseas.

Questions are asked about the bridge and some tourists have expressed amazement that the bridge floats. Still others inquire how deep the lake is and where the fish are.

SEEK FRIENDS

He stated that the chamber of commerce has handled more than 2,000 inquiries this year. Alberta and B.C. are the main source of these requests followed in order by Ontario, Saskatchewan and Manitoba among the Canadian provinces.

"We continually get requests from tourists trying to locate friends they haven't seen for several years."

"People from overseas generally comment on the scenery and try to learn as much as they can about the area. They are very appreciative."

"We have received several notes from various people, applauding the scenery, weather and hospitality in particular."

"We receive requests on everything, all day and night," he added.

He expects more Americans to travel through Kelowna this summer and said there have been at least as many for July as the corresponding period in 1967. He expects Wenatchee's being the honor city for the Regatta and Spokane for the Penitence Peach Festival as being a boost in Okanagan tourism this year. The Okanagan-Similkameen Tourist Association has also been campaigning in Spokane.

Most western states, principally California, were represented in the guest book this month, including Alaska. Other states witnessed were Wyoming, Colorado, Wisconsin, Georgia, Tennessee, Indiana, Ohio, Florida, Minnesota, New York, and the territorial island of Puerto Rico.

In the month of July, travelers from England, New Zealand, France, Scotland, Denmark and Holland made stops at the tourist information centre. "Most of the foreigners stop to inquire what there is to do in Kelowna," Mr. Stevenson said.

Only two stops have been made by New Zealand tourists, both within an hour of each other. "The strange thing about it," said Mr. Stevenson, "is that they never knew each other."

INQUIRIES

Most inquiries are for accommodation, particularly camping and trailer housing. "Sometimes, however, we get some very strange inquiries. People generally ask about Ogopogo but many ask whether the lake is part of the ocean, whether or not it is salt water, when the tide is in and other questions which are obvious to Okanagan residents," added Mr. Stevenson.

A public tour of North Okanagan orchards will be held August 1. The tour will centre around Winfield and Osoyoos and many Okanagan horticultural experts will be on hand.

The tour begins at 10 a.m. in Osoyoos at the Arnold Trehitt orchard. The tour experts will lecture on growing your own trees and give technical instruction on dense planting of golden delicious apples using this orchard as an example.

The Tom Duggan orchard, Camp Road, Winfield, will be the next stop on the tour. This orchard nursery will be used to emphasize soil fertility and the comparison of several different mixtures of grasses for orchard swards.

LECTURES

Satwant Dhindsa will lecture on fertilizer requirements of the orchard at 11 a.m.

Dr. John Wilcox will then present a talk on maintenance and management of orchard swards to promote soil fertility. A demonstration of leaf brushing machine and techniques of mite counting will be performed by F. E. Kyle and Harold Madsen.

A lunch break will be held at 12 noon. Bring your own lunch and refreshments will be provided.

At 1 p.m., there will be a display of orchard equipment. This will be followed at 1:30 p.m. with a panel discussion. Members of this panel will be Dr. Donald Fisher and Dr. Harold Madsen, both of the Summerland Research Station; J. Richardson of Niagara Chemicals, O. Scott of Green Cross Chemicals and Frank Morton, horticulturist for Kelowna.

This tour will give the public a chance to iron out any orchard problems they might have.

$2,400 Damage In Two Mishaps

RCMP said a car driven by Bonnie Dellar, Guisachan Road, failed to negotiate a curve on Knox Mountain Road, Wednesday at 10:30 p.m., and rolled down a slight embankment. Damage was estimated at $2,000. There were no injuries.

At 6:20 a.m. today, a car-truck collision occurred at Bernard Avenue and Ellis Street, causing damage estimated at $400. Drivers were George McIntosh, High River, Alta., and Robert Burke, Hartman Road. There were no injuries.

DURING REGATTA

No Privileges On Park Entry

Senior Citizens who had hoped for preferred treatment during this year's Regatta find their hopes dashed today.

A motion passed by the Regatta executive Thursday answered with a definite no to the question whether senior citizens would be admitted free to the park during festivities.

It stated, "no special privileges will be granted to any particular group or individuals with respect to admission to the park during Regatta week."

BOWLER EXEMPT

The decision will not effect lawn bowlers guaranteed free access to their facilities under an agreement between the city and their association.

Executive approved a resolution, proposed by Richard Gunoff that admission be charged for all commercial vehicles going into the park for purposes of income or revenue. Admission fee will be $1.00.

The restrictive policy is aimed at limiting distribution of passes which one board member indicated had been too liberal in the past.

Ted Runnalls said, "There should be better control in giving out passes. Non-participants are not entitled to free admission." He recommended strict distribution of passes only to those concerned or directly connected with the event.

A further motion defined the applicability of the previous one so as to include Regatta members, doctors or any motorist parking in the restricted area during the four days.

STAGE REPAIRS

Executive passed a motion by which negotiations will be initiated with the city to assure that the aquatic stage, which Al Jensen termed rotting and weathered, is built up. It reportedly drops eight inches and is unsuitable for performers. In order for workmen to construct a backdrop for Regatta action the stage must be raised. Chairman Murray Joyce said he would represent the board in negotiations.

Color and pageantry will highlight this year's show as Al Jensen demonstrated.

Jensen, publicity man for the association, showed three backdrops against which prime attractions will be cast. The coronation background he said would be done in pinks, mauves and light blues. Backdrops can be altered to provide a variety of fluorescent colors to suit the occasion.

ENTERTAINMENT

Entertainment was finalized. The executive passed a resolution which advised the Zinko White Majorette group that money would not be given them as they had requested. Chairman Joyce said it would have been contrary to Regatta policy to grant the money.

A 20-piece pipe band will be coming from Medicine Hat in addition to a Kamloops group who later this year are scheduled to go to Japan.

The night show will be headlined by a seven-piece rock band, the Rotations, who have been called one of the top bands in the Pacific Northwest.

The Rotations will probably be greeted by a city decked out in hats. "Twelve dozen hats arrived," said Secretary Jim Hayes. "They are being distributed to retailers and come in all sizes."

If Alderman Thomas Angus has his way no city resident will be without a pass. He proposes to launch a five-day ticket blitz which would encompass the business section and could coincide with the parade route.

The blitz which is in the planning stages must be approved by non-Regatta members before it can be finalized. Mr. Jensen believes a strong campaign will be needed to see a portion of the 3,500 tickets being issued.

If the scheme is given the go-ahead, Regatta promoters would contact service clubs and other organizations to push the drive.

Thanks to Jack Brow something new has been added this year. Spaceball is a game played by two people on a trampoline. The nature of the game is somewhat obscure, has proved popular south of the border and will be brought to Kelowna by Terry Henderson of Kamloops. Mr. Brow suggested the innovation and the executive approved.

Henderson will give instruction in the city park and allow spectators to try their luck for a small fee.

So as to facilitate co-ordination in timing between the Penitence Peach Festival and the Regatta which usually compete for choice days tentative dates were approved for the next five years. In 1969 the event will run from August 6-9, 1970 August 8-11, 1971 Aug. 2-5, 1972 Aug. 2-5 and 1973 Aug. 1-4.

As indicated Regatta people preferred the earlier dates.

B.C. Wage Levels And Other Related Factors

A study of comparative wage levels and the factors relating to them have been studied by the Employers' Council of British Columbia, a non-profit organization supported by some 40 major corporations and associations in British Columbia. Some 30 industries were studied and the province's performance has been compared to that of the other economic regions of Canada and to selected U.S. states.

The study shows that by whatever measure of wage comparison used B.C. leads Canada by a substantial margin. B.C.'s average hourly earnings exceed the Canadian average by about 20 per cent and that of the Maritimes by 50 per cent.

B.C. base rates are 20 per cent higher than those in Ontario and the more resource-oriented a B.C. industry is, the higher its lead in wages over the rest of Canada. Secondary and service industries in B.C. also substantially exceed national average earnings.

Wage differentials between regions within the province are decreasing.

Since 1962 average earnings in B.C. have increased more rapidly than in Canada as a whole. Pulp and paper average earnings in 1962-67 are up 35 per cent in B.C., compared with 29 per cent for Canada as a whole; average earnings in "all manufacturing" are up 32 per cent in B.C. compared with 28 per cent for Canada as a whole.

On a per capita earnings basis B.C. and Ontario have led the nation for the past fifty years but now B.C. is rapidly climbing into first place. The average income in B.C. is now $2,438 per capita compared to $2,454 in Ontario.

Wage settlements in B.C. and Canada as a whole in 1967 have been running around nine per cent — much higher than in the United States. Wages and wage settlements in Canada are outstripping increases in both productivity and the cost of living. Wage settlements of nine per cent are much higher than the increase in real Gross National Product and the Consumer Price Index combined. Yes, combined. These trends endanger our economic prosperity.

From 1950 to 1965 personal income after taxes nearly trebled in Canada while corporation profits after taxes doubled.

Both Canada and the United States have wide disparities of earnings between regions. B.C. and California are the two high wage areas while the Maritimes and the south-eastern states are low-wage depressed areas. The Canadian and U.S. cities of highest earnings are both on the west coast: Vancouver and San Francisco.

Labor fringe benefit provisions in B.C. are substantially higher than the Canadian average. This means such things as more paid statutory holidays, shorter qualifying periods for vacations and longer paid vacation periods.

An interesting contradiction is found in the fact that employment in B.C. has risen by 31 per cent since 1962, the fastest increase of any province in Canada, yet since 1958 B.C. has consistently had the third highest provincial unemployment rate.

Canada, in order to survive economically, must more than most other nations export to live. This is still more true of B.C. which has nearly half of all commodities going to foreign markets. By contrast, Canada exports nearly one-fifth of her Gross National Product, while the U.S. exports less than five per cent of its GNP.

B.C.'s management's introduction of improved production methods and its continued plowback of profits have been basic factors in creating the continuing prosperity and high wage levels of the 1960s. Since 1962 more than $12 billions have been invested in new plant in this province, much of it in the form of profits and retained earnings. Without such profits, which also enable new capital to be raised and put into plant, the spectacular expansion of this period of B.C. industry, and the creation of thousands of new jobs, could not have been achieved.

Continue Winter Works

(Calgary Herald)

A smoothly operating Canadian economy requires that as many as possible of the general labor force be kept on the job during the winter.

Without incentives, there is a tendency to postpone works projects during the cold months.

It seems drastic in the circumstances to propose that the annual winter works program be abandoned. The recommendation was made recently by Mr. Jacques Parizeau, a former economics adviser to the Quebec government. He was critical of the federal-provincial-municipal program on grounds that it is wasteful.

But the program has been a factor in stimulating winter employment and providing jobs for workers who might otherwise find themselves forced to seek welfare assistance. Its value to municipalities is reflected in the support the program received at the meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities before Mr. Parizeau spoke on the subject.

The examples of waste and inefficiency in the program which Mr. Parizeau cited suggest that a careful examination of its administration up to now is in order. Certainly abuses should be weeded out. But until a better alternative is found, it appears that no useful purpose would be served by eliminating winter works altogether.

News Media Gauntlet

(Winnipeg Free Press)

Prime Minister Trudeau has thrown down the gauntlet to the news media. If he has anything to do with it, his cabinet ministers will adhere most strictly to their oath of cabinet secrecy. More than one error in this respect and the minister will be a minister no more.

It will be interesting to see how strictly and for how long Mr. Trudeau's edict is observed. The prime minister is totally within his rights in laying down the law here. On the other side, a famous editor of The Times once wrote: "The press lives by disclosure."

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:

We discovered a lump in my mother's jaw. The doctor said it was a stone and fluid had gathered around it. Could you tell me how a stone happened to be there? It's not gone in a month, she has to have an operation. —B.D.

Such "stones" are (like gall stones and kidney stones) solidified material which has been precipitated from certain body fluids. Such "stones" can form in ducts or outlets of glands which produce liquids in which various materials are dissolved.

From your description, I would guess that in this case the stone is in the duct of the parotid gland, that is, one of the saliva glands. These stones can sometimes be painful in addition to cause swelling of the gland, since the outlet is plugged, or partially so, and the saliva produced by the gland cannot flow freely. Sucking on a lemon or something quite sour sometimes will activate the saliva gland to an extent that will force the stone out. If that does not work, surgical removal may be necessary.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am conscious of hearing noises resembling the tinkle of Chinese glass wind chimes, and more pronounced when I lie down to go to sleep at night.

My hearing is good, I do not suffer from earaches or high blood pressure. I am over 65 and go to work every day.

What is your advice on this? I hesitate to mention this to anyone else but you, afraid it might be thought I am commencing to imagine things. — Mrs. E. P.

Medications, high blood pressure, and ear defects all are possible causes of ear noises. But many times no cause can be ascertained, and in that case the best solution is to accept the fact that the noises are present but do not indicate anything physically wrong.

There's no occasion to conceal the fact, because ear noises, when we reach the age bracket of 60 or so, are extremely common. Often they occur considerably earlier than that.

Dear Dr. Molner: I read somewhere that zinc is important in the diet, and if men don't get enough of it, they may not be fertile. Is this true? If so, in what foods is zinc prominent besides seafood? —J.M.E.

Zinc is one of the "trace elements" that has had considerable discussion lately. It is present in all tissues of the body, and appears to be related to enzyme activity.

I don't know of any special relationship to fertility. Extra amounts of zinc have been found to accelerate wound healing, and extra zinc has been tried in cases of extensive arteriosclerosis.

In actual living habits, it is hard to escape getting enough zinc because good sources of it, besides seafood, include beef, egg, liver, many vegetables including corn, beans, peas, and others, cereals, yeast and fruits including pears, apples, cherries. So don't worry about getting enough.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it normal to bleed after sexual relations? This has happened frequently in the last two months. —W.W.

By all means see your doctor. I have known of cases in which this was the first sign of cancer of the cervix. In other instances the source of the blood can be the husband, a condition called hematospermia. So if no cause is found in your examination, have your husband get a checkup.

Some Priceless Treasures May Go When Sunken Ferry Disposed Of

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP) —

One of the most arduous salvage operations of recent years is about to start in Wellington harbor. And all for a ship which will either be towed to sea and sunk or cut up for scrap.

The vessel is the 8,444-ton ferry Wahine which sank in a 120-mile-an-hour gale at the entrance to Wellington harbor in April. Built less than two years ago at a cost of $7,500,000, she plied between the two islands of New Zealand carrying passengers, cars and freight.

The Wahine struck a reef in the storm, and later sank and turned on her side while almost within the safety of the inner harbor. Of the 727 persons aboard, 51 died, mainly by drowning or being dashed on the rocks by the wild seas.

Salvage investigations showed that the cost to raise and repair the ship would be greater than the insured value and the vessel was declared a total loss.

WRECK MUST GO

But the wreck is a hazard at the entrance to the busy port of Wellington. She lies partly submerged, with one side showing above water. The Wellington harbor board has ordered removal.

Many methods of salvage have been considered, including pumping in urethane foam, filling the vessel with millions of ping pong balls or blowing her up with the spot.

The probable method will be to cut off funnel, masts and part of the superstructure, and then refloat the vessel by urethane foam. It is pumped into certain compartments, solidifies, and pushes the water out.

If the Wahine can be given enough buoyancy she may be taken to be cut up for scrap. Otherwise, she probably will be taken to sea and sunk in deep water.

CARS LEFT INSIDE

One of the headaches caused by the wreck is that the ship carried 74 cars plus a number of trucks, freight trucks and other vehicles. Some of the cars are valuable personal possessions.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Hubert Humphrey Humphrey's Man

By PHILIP DEANE, Foreign Affairs Analyst

Hubert Humphrey came as close as a polite and patriotic man could come to saying that as president he would not follow Lyndon Johnson's policies. Hubert Humphrey, as vice-president, he said, is a member of a team. Hubert Humphrey as president is the captain of the team. He added that different orchestras conductors make by even the same score sound different, even when they conduct the same orchestra. And finally he stated categorically that he had never believed there could be a military solution to the Vietnam war.

To say more would have involved direct criticism by Humphrey of Lyndon Johnson. At this stage, this would certainly undermine the position of the U.S. negotiators in Paris because if the Vietnamese conclude that Humphrey would make peace more readily than would Johnson, they might simply wait until after the elections before getting down to substantive negotiations. At this stage therefore, direct criticism by Humphrey of the Johnson policies in Vietnam would not only be impolitic but also unpatriotic.

But the young who do not necessarily remember Humphrey's impressive record as an enlightened statesman who has been a pathfinder in the search for a better life, might refuse to support him unless he utters a ritualistic, formal denunciation of the Johnson policies.

If the young and the more fervid liberals do not support Humphrey, he could lose to Nixon in the autumn. The tragedy would then be that Humphrey would have lost for the wrong reasons, lost because his natural supporters, in their search for the "new politics" failed to understand that there are predicaments which a man like Humphrey could not help without going either against the national interest or common good manners.

To disagree publicly with a president, a vice-president has to resign, which precipitates a national crisis. Under the latest amendment to the constitution, if the vice-president is incapacitated or resigns, he must be replaced by a man the president nominates with the approval of congress.

There has not been much liberal consensus evident in this last congress. A Johnson nominee to succeed Humphrey could not have been as liberal as Humphrey is and win congressional approval. In fact, the act the liberals and the young have wanted Humphrey to commit would have taken from the White House a leading and persuasive liberal and replaced him with some one much more conservative.

The partisans of the new politics say they would have preferred this, to draw the issues clearer. But that would only have meant in November a confrontation between two conservatives, one from each party, whereas now, the conservative Nixon will oppose the liberal Humphrey who, incidentally, should not be counted out — he is quite a campaigner.

CANADA'S STORY

Settlers Returned To Red River Homes

By BOB BOWMAN

Although the first party of Selkirk settlers arrived at Red River in 1812, it was not until July 19, 1817, that the colony was really there to stay. For five years Selkirk's families from Scotland and Ireland had been harassed by the tough Nor'Westers, who killed some of them, burned their homes, and trampled down their crops.

In June 1816, the Nor'Westers under Cuthbert Grant, a Scottish halfbreed, had killed Governor Semple and 20 of his men in the Battle of Seven Oaks, near Fort Douglas. Some of Selkirk's settlers were persuaded to go to Upper Canada, while others retreated to Jack River flowing from Lake Winnipeg. This was one of the places where the original party had stopped in 1812, and procured a bull and a cow called Adam and Eve from a Hudson's Bay Company post.

Selkirk travelled from Montreal to Fort William in the summer of 1816 and brought soldiers with him. They were members of the de Meuron and de Waterville Regiments (mostly Swiss mercenaries) who had fought in the War of 1812 and then settled in Lower Canada.

Selkirk seized the Nor'Westers headquarters at Fort William and then sent a party to recapture Fort Douglas. This made it possible for the settlers at Jack River to return to their Red River homes and begin the task of rebuilding. They arrived just in time to take part in a most colorful scene. Lord Selkirk, acting for King George III, was making a treaty with the Crozes, Assiniboine, and Sauk-Indians for the lands of the settlement. They called him "The Silver Chief" and liked him.

At last the Red River settlement could be permanent. The Swiss soldiers were given land, and a number of French Canadians who arrived the following year became the founders of St. Boniface.

PM Not In Agreement With Criminal Code Idea

NATO Nations Plan Fighter

LEGGY GIRLS SAY:

Get Your Gun and Use It . . .

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau has indicated he does not care for Justice Minister Turner's idea about peremptory challenge to the Criminal Code bill by sections.

Mr. Trudeau still regards the omnibus bill as a single bill. But he was not closing the door on the Turner suggestion.

"I haven't had a report from Mr. Turner on it," Mr. Trudeau said. "If he has grave reasons for changing it, I suppose we'd consider them."

Mr. Turner, Mr. Trudeau's successor in justice, told a reporter earlier the many-sided bill amending the code may be broken up.

This would permit members of Parliament to vote against one section, without opposing the whole bill.

"I want to make sure that an MP who is against abortion, but for a tougher firearms law doesn't lose his vote," Mr. Turner said by way of example.

But Mr. Trudeau, who introduced the bill into the last Parliament, said MPs will "have all the freedom they want to express their opinions" on specific sections in Parliament when the bill is re-introduced. It died when the last Parliament was dissolved for the June 25 election.

BONN (Reuters) — Britain, West Germany, Italy and The Netherlands have agreed to develop and advance combat aircraft to equip their air forces in the next decade.

A West German defence ministry spokesman said the four nations signed an agreement on co-operation in the first phase of the aircraft's development, its design.

In Ottawa today, a defence department spokesman said Canada has been studying the possibility of acquiring a new multi-purpose aircraft for some time.

Discussions have been held with several NATO countries concerning a possible joint development of such an aircraft but no commitments have been made.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — words clear enough to reach police ears, "Pigs go home."

Black leather jackets and black cloth berets distinguish the elite guard. They move in a precise military column only when squad leaders quietly pass the word. Some speak into walkie-talkies—to where, none will say.

"Time to get your gun."

In cadence with the clapping of the girls' hands, the 60 young men flanking them in military line on the courthouse steps raise clenched fists in reply:

"And use it."

These are the Black Panthers, a gun-carrying group of Negro militants spawned in West Oakland. This time, they left their guns at home.

Inside the Alameda County courthouse, on trial on a charge of murdering a white policeman, is Huey Newton, the handsome 26-year-old who organized the Black Panther party in 1966.

Around the heavily-guarded courthouse their supporters march. And as they pass helmeted officers they calmly hiss in up and advise the black suspects of their rights.

Panther leaders contended the Oakland authorities denied this activity prompted police to get Newton. In October 1967, they got him—on a charge of shooting and killing a policeman who stopped his car.

Last April in a West Oakland gun battle, Black Panther Bobby Hutton, 18, was killed and two policemen wounded in another incident.

Back in the spring of 1967, more than 20 Black Panthers carried guns into the state Capitol in Sacramento. Startled officers disarmed them but later gave the guns back because they were unconcealed weapons.

How many Black Panthers are there?

Always the answer from Black Panther sources is the same:

"Those who know don't say; those who say don't know."

Police intelligence puts the number at around 200. They come largely from the West Oakland ghetto where 40,000 Negroes are crowded together.

Newton served six months in jail for a knife at a party in 1964.

Then in 1966 he formed the Black Panther party with Bobby Seale whom he met at Merritt College.

Oct. 28, 1967, there was bloodshed in West Oakland. Patrolman John Frey, 23, who had stopped a car, died with four bullets in his body. Another policeman was shot three times but got off a shot of his own.

A short while later, Huey Newton was arrested at hospital with a gun wound in his stomach.

Face-Lifting Program Ready For Quebec Grits On Weekend

QUEBEC (CP) — The provincial Liberals this weekend launch a program of policy renewal that could diminish the strength of the party's most determined special status seekers and strengthen the leadership of former premier Jean Lesage.

Leader Lesage Wednesday announced that he and other leading party figures will travel across the province consulting Quebec Liberal Federation members at nine regional policy meetings.

Central feature of the consultation program, starting in Rimouski Saturday and ending here Sept. 15, is a new survey aimed at finding out how strongly party members feel about the constitutional issue.

The opinion survey, whose results will be available only to the party leaders, could strengthen Mr. Lesage's case that the people are more interested in bread-and-butter matters than constitutional questions.

Such a result would enable Mr. Lesage, a moderate on the constitutional question, to exercise greater authority over the party's radical constitutional thinkers such as former education minister Paul Gelin-Lajoie.

INFLUENCE GROWS

Mr. Gelin-Lajoie's growing influence within the party was reflected by adoption within the caucus of a party constitutional committee report urging special Quebec status within a confederation renewed by a new constitution.

At the federation's annual meeting last year, when former cabinet minister Rene Levesque quit the party, members rejected "separatism in all its forms" and endorsed special status for Quebec. Mr. Levesque now leads the separatist Movement Souverainete-Association.

A special constitutional conference was to have been held in June, 1967, preceded by regional meetings, to define special status based on a study of what became known as "the Gelin-Lajoie report."

But this conference was cancelled when the federal Liberals announced plans to hold the leadership conference that brought to power Pierre Elliott Trudeau, a celebrated critic of special status.

And during the federal leader's successful general election campaign that won him 56 of Quebec's 74 federal seats, most Liberal MLAs publicly endorsed Mr. Trudeau in spite of the conflicting constitutional views.

The Gelin-Lajoie report will GETS HIS WINGS

PETERBOROUGH, England (CP) — Garbage man Harry Fletcher, 64, spent $1,500 of his life savings on a three-seater light aircraft. Now he plans to take up flying lessons. "My friends think I am crazy taking up flying at my age, but you're never too old to learn," says Harry, who was a mechanic in the RAF.

be studied during the regional consultation program along with six other topics, including education, cultural affairs and agriculture, to be discussed at the federation's annual meeting in Montreal Oct. 4-6.

INQUIRY SCOPE WIDE

But Mr. Lesage noted that the constitutional questionnaire, a sort of internal referendum on the constitution, is not based on the special status report, but "is much more general."

The questionnaire goes beyond existing party policy to ask if Quebec should have a special status (statut particulier) within confederation or if it should be "a province like the others."

Among other things, the questionnaire asks Liberals how they rate the importance of the following issues:

Education, special security, economic development, the constitutional problem.

Mr. Lesage explained the difference between "privileged status" (statut privilegie) rather than "special status" (statut particulier).

He said Quebec already has special status, for example, in that it has a civil code and bilingualism in the courts.

"Privileged status" meant that Quebec would have certain powers, such as the right to deal internationally in fields of provincial jurisdiction, while Ottawa would act for the other provinces in such fields.

The Criminal Code bill is a massive document which amends the code on a variety of subjects, some of which are unrelated.

Some portions such as relaxation of abortion and homosexuality laws pose a question of conscience to many MPs in the eyes of some observers

MILK PRICE ANNOUNCEMENT

NOCA Dairy maintains a policy of providing the best possible product and service for all British Columbia Interior consumers.

However, an adjustment in the price of milk is now unavoidable. The increase will be from one to two cents per quart, depending on the type and size of package.

As in other industries, our manufacturing and distribution costs have increased steadily. With our new milk plant we have introduced as many efficiencies as possible in addition to insuring the quality of our dairy products. NOCA is currently negotiating a new wage contract with the Teamsters' Union — and any increase granted will be retroactive so that revenues to meet it must be provided from current milk sales. (A recent Teamster contract with coast dairies provided for increases of up to $56 per hour over two years, which we consider to be excessive and inflationary.)

NOCA is also paying an increased price to the producers, as ruled by the B.C.

NOCA milk is still your best food buy. It is locally produced fresh milk of highest quality, and every quart of local milk purchased benefits our local economy.

Lady-Of-The-Lake Candidates Model At Pre-Regatta Luncheon

This year there are unfortunately only two of the very popular Pre-Regatta Luncheons for the Lady-of-the-Lake candidates, but it seems the luncheons will make up in size what they lack in numbers. On Wednesday nearly 200 guests gathered at the Kelowna Aquatic to watch the eight lovely young candidates model summer outfits for the young and gay, and to decide which girls they think should be chosen Lady-of-the-Lake and her Lady-in-Waiting. This year once again that will be a difficult choice as all the candidates are delightful to watch, pretty, fresh and poised young ladies.

The luncheon was convened by Mrs. Lawrence Preston of the Regatta Committee, and receiving the guests on their arrival were Mrs. Harry Van Ackeren and Miss Helen Matsuda. After those attending had served themselves at the long buffet table which bore a number of delicious hot dishes and colorful salads, the fashion show took place with the models walking informally among the tables and chatting with the guests while Mrs. Kamakura played the pleasant background music.

The showing opened with the girls modelling the attractive play suits seen in the picture. One particularly attractive outfit worn by Marina Maundrell was a light model of apple green stretch terry cloth featuring a matching hood, front zipper, and an elasticized bottom to the tunic, worn with white shorts of the same material. It would be perfect for boating. Another pretty outfit was Dianne Wilson's White Stag cotton knit, tank top outfit of turquoise and white stripes worn with turquoise shorts, while Colleen Gordon, who was apparently ready for a game of croquet, wore a long coffee colored tunic with white trim and large pockets over matching, barely visible shorts. Following the play suits came dresses in various types and shapes, but all very short at the hemlines. Sue Barclay looked especially smart in a brown A-line coat dress trimmed with white braid and a matching sailor type collar. Andria Fuller, the smallest of the candidates, was dainty in an A-line dress of white hop sacking trimmed down the front with black buttons and featuring black lace rucking on the mandarin collar, pockets and opening, and Cathy Goode's hipster dress of blue and white stripes was of polyester jersey, and featured a dropped waist line and belt. Colleen Gordon modelled an especially pretty lime green dress of voile acetate, with rows of tiny vertical tucks in front edged with white lace, long sleeves and back again a natural waistline. Val Paul also modelled a smart dress of brown and white checked voile trimmed with white voile ruffles and featuring a wide brown belt at the waistline. Marina Maundrell was most attractive in an empire line dress of tiered white lace, with a high white satin belt finished with a large matching bow at the back of the high waistline, while another hipster dress with a long white tunic, mauve belt, and a skirt of pleated mauve crepe was shown by Colleen Gordon. Liz Knox was charming modelling a very pretty A-line dinner dress of

ANN LANDERS

The Old Gaffer Sounds Senile

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a good, attractive, dignified man—respected and well liked by everyone. Dwayne holds a good position with a nationally known firm. He came home from work this evening and repeated the following story.

About 3:00 p.m. he walked from his desk to the water cooler. As he was leaning over to take a drink, his boss (an elderly man) came up behind him and gave him three hard slaps on the backside. This was in full view of the entire office. The boss then shouted in a voice that could be heard by everyone, "That will teach you to waste time. Get back to your desk and go to work."

My husband is so humiliated by this public spanking that he wants to quit his job. I've tried to tell him the old man was kidding and he should not be so sensitive. At the same time, I must agree it is a mighty strange way for a boss to treat a 36-year-old employee. Your opinion is wanted. — HOUSTON

Dear Houston: Kidding, you say? The old gaffer sounds senile to me. If your husband has a good job I hope he will not quit because of this single incident. Encourage him to consider the source and make allowances.

Dear Ann Landers: Many people read your column and little else. Please get across this vital message to Mr. and Mrs. America.

First: You are not going to live forever. Second: Unless you don't give a hoot about what happens to your money and possessions after you are gone, put your wishes in writing and make it legal.

I work in a lawyer's office and I've heard the following statements so many times it makes me sick. "I know Papa wanted to put his nephews through college. He said so many times but his second wife is keeping everything for herself." Here's another familiar tune: "My sister would not like what is happening in the family. She often told me she would provide for our invalid brother but her selfish children have inherited everything and feel they owe their uncle nothing."

Unless it's written down and in legal form, you can be sure of nothing, except that the law will take over. What's right morally or what "Papa wanted" doesn't amount to a hill of beans unless it's in writing and 100 per cent legal. — BROKEN RECORD

Dear Record: I hope every person who reads your letter will ask himself, "If I died tomorrow would my property and goods be divided just as I want them to be?"

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES BYRON JOHNSTON

Regina United Church Scene Of Johnston-McComb Wedding

The Wesley United Church in Regina, Sask., was the scene of a pretty afternoon wedding recently when Bonnie Gertrude McComb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee McComb, became the bride of Charles Byron Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Johnston of Kelowna with Rev. J. J. Towers officiating at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor length A-line gown of candlelight white worsted silk lined, fashioned with short trumpet sleeves and a yolk of guipure lace with a sabrina neckline. A trumpet train fell gracefully from the yolk, and she wore cultured pearl earrings and short gloves. Her head-dress was a matching double bow accented with marguerite daisies, and she carried a colonial bouquet of marguerite daisies, gypsophylla and fern.

Miss Brenda McComb acted as her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were the groom's sisters Miss Patricia and Miss Wendy Johnston of Kelowna. The three attendants wore short dresses of imported de Beas cotton in varying shades of yellow and green respectively, with matching accessories and double bows on their hair. The carried bouquets of carnations, daisies and gypsophylla and fern.

The best man was Trevor Tupper of Kelowna and the ushers were Harold McComb of Kelowna and Robert McComb of Regina.

Bargaining Units Essential To Nurses

SASKATOON (CP) —Collective bargaining is essential for nurses, a five-member panel agreed at the Canadian nurses' convention Thursday.

"In bargaining, you don't get all that you want," said Evelyn Hood of Vancouver. "But you get a lot more than if you didn't ask."

Gertrude Hotte of Quebec City called collective agreements for nurses "an absolute necessity."

They were needed to interest nurses in working conditions and salaries.

Members of the panel, all employment relations officers for provincial nursing groups, outlined variations in labor laws and their interpretation from province to province.

All said the status of head nurses and supervisors is a key management personnel and not them from bargaining units.

They are not only concerned about the economic welfare of the nursing profession, but also the status of nursing as a profession.

PRESENTS LAST DEGREE VANCOUVER (CP) — Myrtle Kievel, assistant registrar at the University of British Columbia, presented her last degree at UBC's recent spring congregation. She retires June 30 after 31 years at the university where she received her BA in 1924. She joined UBC in 1937 as a clerk and became assistant registrar in 1945.

One Of Soviet's Top Writers Dies In Moscow At Age Of 76

MOSCOW (AP) — Konstantin G. Paustovsky, one of the Soviet Union's leading writers and one of its most prominent defenders of liberal causes, died Sunday. He was 76 and had been in failing health for some time.

In recent years Paustovsky had been best known for his attacks on Stalinist control of Soviet culture and his participation in protests against the imprisonment of writers. He had become something of a hero to many young intellectuals.

Despite his signing of protest petitions, Paustovsky was honored by the government last year with one of its highest awards, the Lenin Prize, in recognition of his "contribution to the development of Soviet literature."

Of Polish and Cossack origin, Paustovsky published his first story in 1911 at the age of 19.

As the Stalinists clamped down on free thinkers, Paustovsky began to have trouble with the authorities. But he managed to continue to publish.

After Stalin's death in 1953, Paustovsky was a leader in efforts to liberalize the Soviet literary scene. A leading member of the Kremlin-line Union of Writers, he pleaded with the union for greater artistic freedom.

Paustovsky's best works published during the last 20 years were his autobiographical Story of a Life, which was translated in the West, and The Golden Rose, a collection of essays and stories on the theme of artistic inspiration.

Paustovsky defended the late Boris Pasternak during a furore in 1957 and 1958 over Pasternak's epic novel Doctor Zhivago.

HOW A NON-WINNER LOOKED

She wasn't the winner, and the gown she is wearing here was banned, but, oh well, who cares, we'll run her picture anyway. Miss South Africa, Monica Fairall of Durban, made an entrance in the Miss Universe Contest at Miami Beach, which made everything all right anyway. After the whistles had died down, officials fussily said this kind of gown couldn't be permitted in the Miss Universe contest. So off it came... and a more covering costume worn. But Monica, who is 20, didn't win anyway.

TV Studying Race Problem

NEW YORK (A.P.)—The United States television industry, prodded by the presidential riot commission report, is devoting serious attention to the country's racial problems.

The report, issued in March by the national advisory commission on civil rights, said all communications media had failed adequately to define, explain and report "race relations and ghetto problems." It also said the communications media have failed to communicate "a sense of Negro culture, thought, or history."

To correct this, the three major commercial networks have scheduled—or are now showing—a series of special programs investigating racial problems and the plight of the American cities.

These new programs, the networks say, not only will go beyond the day-to-day reporting, but will try to give a picture of Negro culture, thought and history never before seen on the TV screen.

The networks say they hope the series will serve as a means to enlighten the white majority and provide the black community an identification and link with its own heritage.

Thumbnail sketches of what the networks planned:

—ABC scheduled six one-hour specials that will examine what it calls white racism and its ramifications. "We hope to involve our audiences through the realization that 'nice America' is indeed racist—North and South, black and white," said News President Elmer W. Lower.

—CBS started showing its 6½-hour series, Of Black America, July 2. It will run to Aug. 20. It will trace Negro history and hopefully provide a source of identity for millions of black viewers.

—NBC undertook a long-range exploration of the urban crisis in the U. S., of which the Negro is the centre, said producer Fred Freed. The series, consisting of three one-hour shows and one two-hour show, will look at education, housing, pollution, employment, transportation and other aspects of close-in living. It is expected to be an annual undertaking. The first program probably will be late this year.

U.S. And African Negroes Face Same Kind Of Problems

NEW YORK (AP) — American and African Negro leaders joined in a televised transatlantic town meeting Tuesday night on CBS to discuss common problems.

They said they agreed that, although separated by the Atlantic and three centuries of apartness, the problems of American and African Negroes are similar.

Each shares a common race and heritage and each is faced with the need of establishing an identity in a modern and complex world.

That common bond, and a few differences, were revealed in Black World, the third in the seven-part CBS series, Of Black America. It was worthwhile that these ideas should be explored though the going was at times tedious.

The guests were Thomas Mboya, minister of economic planning and development for Kenya, who spoke from Nairobi; Dr. Alex Kwapong, vice-chancellor of the University of Ghana, who spoke from Accra; U.S. Representative John Conyers (Dem. Mich.), who spoke from Washington; and civil rights leader Floyd McKissick, who spoke from New York. Mike Wallace was moderator and narrator.

Because Africa has no satellite communication facilities the speakers were connected by radio and telephone. Each was filmed separately and later edited together.

RID OF ASIANS

Mboya, in a view echoed by the others, said he found the majority of Africans were against the war in Vietnam and believed that the Americans were interfering in the affairs of Southeast Asia. But he later chided the United States for not intervening in South Africa.

Questioned by Wallace about reports of discrimination in Kenya against Asians who retain their British citizenship, Mboya denied such reports.

At the end, he said: "I can state categorically that the Asians who have left Kenya can be regarded by all of us as 'good riddance.' In fact the sooner they leave, the better."

Dr. Kwapong and Mboya told of the struggle in Africa for a workable democracy and a black identity. McKissick said he didn't see much difference between the problems of the people of Kenya and those of Negroes in the U.S.

An Experiment With TV Goes Into Second Year

Av Westin, as executive director of the Public Broadcast Laboratory, has survived a turbulent season. PBL was last up under a $10,000,000 grant from the Ford Foundation to produce a weekly series on interconnected educational television stations. It was designed to experiment with new forms and concepts and had some notable successes and widely criticized failures. Now Westin gives a frank evaluation of PBL's past performance and looks ahead optimistically on next season's efforts.

By AV WESTIN
NEW YORK (AP) — Programs for the Public Broadcast Laboratory's second season are beginning to take shape. And this time, the phrase around the shop is: "Let the programs speak for themselves."

Our first season ended in early May after 25 broadcasts, five Emmy nominations—one Emmy Award—and a nomination for an American Heart Association Award.

Some of the programs were exciting television by anyone's standards and others well, I wish we had never put some of them on the air.

But we learned a considerable amount about the form and shape that one kind of public television program could take.

For its second season, the PBL staff has begun researching a series of projects which essentially will make our series one of ideas rather than spot news coverage.

We expect that this in-depth examination of ideas will result in a fairly sizable "bank" of almost finished productions. When their subject matter intersects with events, PBL will broadcast them. This marriage of topicality with greater profundity will, we hope, be the hallmark of PBL's second season.

HAD GOOD DRAMA

It will be fair to judge us by two criteria: The depth of our reportage and the number of times we are highly relevant to events.

This concept of producing broadcasts of ideas carries over as well to the so-called "cultural affairs" area.

In PBL's first season, there were several instances where ideas were presented by drama or performance. The production of Harold Pinter's The Dwarfs enabled us to show not only the work of an important playwright but also gave us the opportunity to surround it with a lively report on the state of the modern theatre.

PBL's coverage of the Buffalo Arts Festival, entitled Who's Afraid of the Avant-Garde?, presented in one broadcast the television premiere of Edward Albee's The Box, Merce Cunningham's ballet Rainforest and a prize-winning film by Jonas Mekas.

LEG VIEWERS DECIDE

PBL brought to millions of television viewers the avant-garde arts scene and let them decide for themselves whether they like the techniques which modern artists are using to convey ideas.

Finally, the Polish comedy Tango was a commentary on structured society versus iconoclasts who want to destroy everything.

The ideas in that play were particularly interesting in the light of the student revolution at Columbia University that week.

Next season, on PBL, we anticipate more use of performance to convey contemporary ideas.

Experimentation and innovation in production techniques will play an important part in PBL's presentations next season but—and that "but" must be underlined—there will be many times when technique innovation will be bypassed in favor of more traditional methods of presentation so that ideas can take precedence.

I'm afraid that last year, when PBL was first beginning, we—and some others on our behalf—trumpeted too loudly the fact that we were going to set the world ablaze with new gimmicks. We have a few up our sleeve but this year we'll use them when they make sense.

There will be several co-productions with the British and French this season which will enable us to expand our coverage of international developments. PBL reporters are overseas now beginning to film material for presentation when events intersect with the subject.

Last season, PBL broadcast a spoof about public television in which the "expert," after elaborate statistical analysis of GTV—good television—and BT—bad television—made the valuable tongue-in-cheek recommendation: "If you know that only 28 of 100 shows will be perfect, do not produce the other 72."

We trust that the 26 shows we produce will comfortably fall within the 28 out of 100 that will be perfect.

URNS TO MOVIES

Bernie Casey, who has played for Los Angeles Rams and San Francisco 49ers, will make his film debut in Guns of the Magnificent Seven.

"Food For Thought"

By Mr. A. J. (Tony) Volk

After a trip to New York City, my uncle reports that what the man in the street is thinking about these days is how to get across it in one piece.

There's no point in knowing all the answers if you can't get anyone to ask the questions.

Old postmen never die. They just lose their zip. Inflation has one point in its favor. It's impossible for the kids to get sick on a five-cent candy bar.

London Bridge Termed 'Antique'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The treasury department said in Washington it has classified London Bridge as an antique which can be admitted to the United States duty free. The first section of the bridge arrived at Los Angeles last Friday and will be rebuilt at Lake Havasu City, Ariz. It is to be a tourist attraction.

Where Do Monkees Go Now ... Or Do You Really Give A Cuss?

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Where do the Monkees go next—or do you care?

There are a few million teenagers and sub-teens who maintain an intense concern about the clutch of singing idols who starred on the NBC network for two seasons.

To many critics, the zany half-hour seemed nothing more or less than a carbon copy of the Beatles movies. But imitation is no drawback to television success, and The Monkees prevailed in their first season. The second year was less successful, and the show will not be back in 1968-69.

What happened? "The second season was just the first season reshaped," explained chief Monkee, Mike Nesmith. "We felt that we had become more proficient, but we were only given the same stuff to do."

"Most people thought that we were cancelled. The fact is that we told NBC that we didn't want to do the same old thing. And so the series came to an end. I can't really say that I'm sorry."

Financially, the demise of the series is a good thing, said Nesmith. He and his mates were earning a fast $1,250 a show, a mere pittance of what they can collect elsewhere.

Such are the rewards of instant fame that the lads earned between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 last year.

Nesmith himself collected about $2,500,000 since he originated much of the musical material used by the Monkees on their shows and albums. The returns will come to him in future years because of deferred payments, hence his fortune looks secure.

But he is concerned about the future, and has sunk $75,000 of his own money into a non-Monkee record album called The Wichita Train Whistle Sings. The Dot album is getting a good play and it appears that the Nesmith investment is going to pay off.

His single venture doesn't mean that he is cutting out from the Monkees. But he is realistic about the future of the team.

"In terms of 'now,' the Monkees are just about over," he commented.

"But I think the feature movie we just finished—we still don't have a title for it—will open up whole new avenues for us. I think that is where our future lies: in features and in television specials—we are signing with NBC for two next season."

Radio Man Finally Quits

OTTAWA (CP) — W. A. (Bill) Caton retired at the end of June as controller of the radio regulations division of the federal transport department after 44 years of service to Canadian radio communications.

A native of Napanee, Ont., Mr. Caton, 66, joined the department of marine and fisheries in 1924 as a $600-a-year junior radio operator at Halifax.

He recently completed one of the most important jobs of his career—the overhaul of the Radio Act to make it conform with the new Broadcasting Act. The Radio Act deals with technical aspects including regulating control of frequencies and standards of equipment.

Before joining the federal public service in 1924, Mr. Caton worked on his own in the radio business in Napanee. Then he entered the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, graduating at Camp Borden, Ont., from an advanced radio communications course.

After serving initially at Halifax and Toronto with the transport department, he came to Ottawa in 1937 as supervising radio inspector and in 1948 was named chief radio inspector. He had been controller of radio regulations since 1958.

Among the highlights of Mr. Caton's career was his participation in the technical operations of the first trans-Canada radio broadcast in 1927 and the royal visit of 1939, during which he was in charge of all broadcasting arrangements.

In 1950 he completed a safety radio communications survey of West Coast marine radio coverage which resulted in major amendments to the Canada Shipping Act affecting radio-telephony aboard ships.

In 1963, he led the Canadian delegation to Geneva for the first worldwide Extraordinary Administrative Radio Conference on frequencies for space satellite radio communications.

Alberta Singer Wins Again

LLANGOLLEN, Wales (CP) — Katie Johnson of Lethbridge, Alta., chalked up a second victory as the international Eisteddfod closed here Saturday, winning the over-16 group for vocal solo against 29 competitors from Europe and North America. The 18-year-old redhead, a member of the Anna Campbell Singers of Lethbridge, had earlier carried off first prize in the over-16 event for solo rendition of folk music. In Saturday's contest she sang a German lied-composition, The Trout.

Katie, who plans to train as a professional singer at the University of Toronto and the Royal Conservatory of Music, was "very thrilled" by her double triumph, a choir member said.

The Lethbridge singers failed to place in Saturday's junior choir event. Their second competitive date in Britain is the festival at Middlesbrough, Yorkshire, July 27 to Aug. 5. They will then spend a few days sight-seeing in London before returning to Canada.

He's Fiddled Life Away . . .

WINNIPEG (CP) — Andy DeJarlis is proud of the fact that he's fiddled his life away. But at 57 he's a little sad at the thought of the fiddle and bow being replaced by the guitar. "The voice and guitar of the country and Western singer now is on the highway and the fiddler, right now, is in the ditch."

When he received a public service award from Winnipeg Mayor Stephen Juba recently he recalled his heyday in the 1930s Depression:

"I was idolized in those days. People who saw me ripped my coat and stole my pens as souvenirs."

Mr. DeJarlis never did study music. "I do know some musical notes, but I have a professional to correct me when wrong."

Fish Biting As Always

By JIM TREADGOLD

FISHING IN THE area is about usual for this time of the season. With the extreme heat of these past few days, fishing during the days has picked up a little, but late evening fly fishing appears to be giving the best results.

Reports from Beaver Lake indicate fishing is definitely picking up there. Ron Collard of Calgary took a nice catch on the Spratley fly. Spinner and worm are good and the fish—orange with red spots and silver also good.

There have been a few good reports from Crooked Lake again. Don White and son Ron did well there last weekend. Other outlying lakes in the Dee chain have been giving fair to good evening fly fishing. A couple of reports from Loon Lake—one was slow fishing and the other was that late evening has been good. One party reported good success on Second Fly Lake last weekend.

Stan Duggan reports quite good fishing to date this season on Hidden Lake at Enderby with a good quality of trout. He expects excellent fishing there in September.

Clarence Henderson and Fred Chamberlain came back Wednesday with limits of nice trout from Jimmie Lake taken on fly.

PENNASK LAKE reports are mostly good. The trout that spawned in June are now back in the lake and are being taken in numbers. Most are being released as they are not yet in condition. This happens every year at this time as these fish are hungry and are feeding heavy to get back into condition.

The egg collection at the Pennask Hatchery was again not up to expectations with approximately only 2,000,000 eggs taken. High water this season made conditions rough and at times impossible for the hatchery staff.

Beaver Lake egg take was up to normal and a good take of eggs was made at some of the Kamloops lakes, which has brought the total egg collection up to approximately 8,000,000, which was the target of the fishery branch and above the average of the last few years. Now, with luck in hatching and rearing, there should be more fry and fingerlings for planting in our lakes, which is good news for fishermen. The hatchery staff is working hard at it and we all wish them well.

While on Pennask Lake I should mention the four fish and game clubs in the South Okanagan, Kelowna, Summerland, Penticton and Oliver, are working to have campsite at Pennask Lake declared a Class "A" Provincial Park. A recent letter our club received from Ken Kiernan, minister of lands, forests and natural resources stated they were working to take the Pennask campsite into the parks branch but it may not necessarily be a Class "A" park.

This does not matter so long as the parks branch takes the area over and administers and improves the site and the road.

I do not think there is any doubt that in the new fishing regulations, which are due soon, that Pennask will be a fly fishing lake only. Also when the parks branch takes over Pennask campsite it could mean the boat rental there may be done away with. I would appreciate hearing the fisherman's views on this as I am chairman of the club's committee on the Pennask campsite and would like to hear other views. The fly fishing only no doubt will mean casting or trolling flies, let's hear your views on this also.

A REPORT THIS week from the Wild Rose camp on Shuswap, states the fishing is generally spotty during the day, with a few being taken in the evenings. Mrs. Lorna Hooper caught a nine-pound Kamloops on a spinning rod using a Tom Mac spoon and her husband Lloyd lost a large one on a deep line. Steel or leaded lines are necessary now on Shuswap when trolling during the day.

Received a brochure on the B.C. Salmon Derby which will be held off Vancouver Aug. 31 to Sept. 2. Registration is $10 each. First prize is $25,000 in silver and prizes total more than $50,000.

A number of local anglers take in this derby and with such large prizes this year—27 in all—I expect the number will increase.

The spring salmon fishing will be starting this weekend at Spences Bridge, as the annual run of these big fish comes up the Fraser and into the Thompson system. These fish are still bright and fresh at this time and even so when they reach the Shuswap River about the first week in August. Last year had an excellent run in the Shuswap and a lot of these large fish were taken early, but the forest closure later in August pretty well spoiled the sport for the anglers.

Red Pridham and party were up to Atnarko River near Bella Coola a week ago and had excellent fishing for the spring. They found the roe the best bait.

THERE IS A GADGET on the market that is a good number for the fly fisherman, especially the ones who like to fish late, right up to and after dark.

This is a magnifying glass that pins onto the front of the coat. It is equipped with a battery and light and is a great help in tying flies on the leader in fading light or in the dark. If you have ever fished late and lost a fly just when the fish was excellent with trout popping up all round the boat you will realize that such a gadget would be a great help.

There will be a free exhibition of paintings of B.C. sport fish by the late Tom Brayshaw July 19 to 26 at Hamilton's galleries on Highway 97—just past the Capri.

I saw these paintings and sketches last Sunday and they are well worth the time.

Tom Brayshaw was a great sportsman and a friend of the sportsmen. He spent the major portion of his life studying and painting fish found in B.C. coastal and inland waters.

He came to Canada in 1910 from Yorkshire and during the 1920's he was an orchardist in the Vernon area. His early hobby of making wooden models of fish led to his later interest in painting and drawing them.

His work was used to illustrate the book Western Angler by the well-known sportsman Roderick Haig-Brown.

These paintings show Tom Brayshaw's superb technique, the delicate coloring and his meticulous attention to detail make these paintings of interest to art collectors and sportsmen alike.

Most of the paintings were purchased last week by a Chicago art collector who was passing through Kelowna, but all will be here for this showing. There is one wooden model of a cutthroat trout that is just perfect in every detail from the carving to the coloring. The gallery is open evenings.

Fleckman Leading PGA But Coach Picks Trevino

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Marty Fleckman is leading the PGA golf tournament through the coaching of Byron Nelson—but his tutor has picked another man.

"I wouldn't be a bit surprised if Lee Trevino went all the way to win this one," Nelson, a two-time PGA titlist, said before the tournament started Thursday.

Trevino backed up the prediction with a 69, but the U.S. Open champion's start wasn't fast enough to hold the lead.

Fleckman had a four-under-par 68 on the Pecan Valley course, taking a two-stroke edge over Frank Beard.

Fleckman gave full credit to Nelson, once one of golf's most polished players.

"I try to own him every chance I get," said Fleckman, who turned pro only a year ago after leading the 1967 U.S. Open for three rounds as an amateur.

"Byron got me back on the track after the U.S. Open this year when I missed the cut," Fleckman said. "I spent a whole day working with him then, and I've been in the money the last five or six weeks."

USED 26 PUTTS

Fleckman used only 26 putts on the tricky greens, bokeyed only one hole and picked up five birdies, including one on the second hole where he chipped in from 25 feet.

Beard missed a chance to share the lead when he bogeyed the last two holes.

Arnold Palmer, who opened with a 71, called the 18th hole "ridiculous" because only Jack Nicklaus was able to drive over the creek.

Nicklaus also shot a 71, two strokes back of Trevino, Mason Rudolph and Don Bies.

Deadlocked at 70 were Dan Sikes, Charles Coody, Miller Barber, Johnny Pott, former PGA titlist Al Gelberger, Frank Boynton and Laurie Hammer.

Bill Casper had a 74, Dave Stockton a 75 and Tom Weiskopf a 77 on the 7,096-yard course.

Defending champion Don January shot a 78, which left him in danger of missing the cut today when the field will be trimmed to the low 70 scorers and tied after the second round.

City Team In Trail

The Kelowna All-Stars, 11 boys selected from the local Little League baseball loop, are in Trail this weekend competing in the provincial finals of Canadian playoffs.

Alec Nyuli, manager and coach Gordon Stoughtonberg are with the team for the week-long competition. In an opening game Thursday, Richmond edged Penticton 4-3.

Tigers Move Ahead After Brief Slump

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit Tigers, after a brief plunge, seem to have resumed the course that had them flying high in the American League.

After taking a commanding 9½ game lead into the All-Star break, the Tigers dropped two of three games at Minnesota and two straight to California, the first time this season they had lost two consecutive series.

But the Tigers steadied in Oakland and rode Earl Wilson's six-hitter to a 3-1 victory over the Athletics Thursday, giving them the series two games to one.

The victory brought Detroit's lead to seven games over idle Cleveland Indians while Baltimore Orioles fell to third place, 7½ games behind, by losing to Chicago White Sox 2-1.

New York Yankees stopped Washington Senators 4-1 in the only night game and Minnesota Twins bombed Boston Red Sox 7-2 in the only other contest.

Wilson, a hard-throwing right-hander, evened his record at 7-7. He had a three-hit shut-out until a double by Ramon Webster, a single by John Donaldson and an infield out got the Athletics a run in the eighth. But the Tigers had three runs by then.

ADD TWO MORE

Bill Freehan hit a sacrifice fly in the fourth inning off loser Lew Krausse, 6-8, after hits by Jim Northrup and Willie Horton. Don Wert's single, a double by Dick McAuliffe, an infield hit by Mickey Stanley and Northrup's sacrifice fly got two more in the fifth.

Eddie Fisher, Wilbur Wood and Hoyt Wilhelm combined to stop the Orioles, who got their only run on Frank Robinson's fifth homer.

The White Sox bunched all

BILL FREEHAN ... sacrifice fly

four of their hits in the first inning off loser Dave Leonhard when Luis Aparicio doubled, Tommy Davis singled and Leon Wagner and Pete Ward each singled in runs.

Horace Clarke singled home the tie-breaking run for the Yankees in the seventh inning off losing reliever Bob Humphreys, and Roy White followed with a home run. White also singled and scored the first run in the opening inning.

Stan Bahnsen worked 8 1-3 innings to raise his record to 8-6.

Minnesota exploded for five runs in the sixth inning to overcome a 2-0 deficit. The big blow was a two-run double by Ted Uhlaender against loser Gary Bell, who relieved in the third inning when Jose Santiago left with a sore right elbow.

Dave Boswell scattered nine hits to square his record at 9-9.

Labs Blow Golden Chance To Move Into Second Spot

Kelowna Labatts blew a golden chance to move into second place as they split a double-header with the Kamloops LeLands in Okanagan Mainline Baseball League action Thursday in Kamloops.

Kelowna clobbered the LeLands 11-2 in the second game of the twin bill after blowing an 8-3 lead and losing 9-8 in the opener. The first game was the completion of the June 27 suspended contest which was continued with the teams deadlocked 3-3 in the eighth inning. Labatts remain two games back of the LeLands in third place but their chances of overtaking the LeLands in the battle for second spot still continue, bright as two of the three remaining Labatt games are against this same Kamloops team.

In the first game, Kelowna scored five runs after play continued in the eighth to give pitcher Allan Vetter a five-run cushion. However, Kamloops bounced back with four runs in the bottom half of the inning and won it with a pair in the ninth.

Kelowna smashed 14 hits in the seven innings regularly scheduled game. Les Schaefer went the distance, allowing only four hits, in picking up his third victory. Every player in the Labatt lineup picked up at least one hit and all but Schaefer, scored at least one run.

With the bases loaded and one out in the eighth in the opener, the point of suspension, Les Schaefer was sent up to hit for Ronny Rantucci. He singled to force the Labatts into a 4-3 lead. Wayne Leonard flied to centre but pinch hitter Gary Lawlor slammed a double to score a pair. Gerry Robertson then singled to score Schaefer and Lawlor.

Leadoff hitter in the eighth for Kamloops, Bud Atkins, started the LeLands comeback, knocking Allan Vetter's second delivery out of the park. Mark Lidster followed with a double off the fence and rode home on second baseman Lawlor's costly error. George Makortoff walked and with one out Eric Shishido drilled a base hit to score the final pair. Meantime Les Schaefer had relieved Vetter and he worked his way out of a bases loaded jam to end the inning.

The disastrous ninth inning started with Schaefer walking leadoff hitter, Mark Lidster, on four pitches. Eddie Begg then bounced a double play ground ball to Cox but his throw to Lawlor at second was dropped, putting runners on first and third. George Makortoff, LeLands temporary playing coach, ended the contest when he blasted a double over centre

Softball Tourney Opens At King's Stadium Today

The top senior B softball teams from throughout British Columbia will compete this weekend in the Molsons second annual tournament at King's Stadium.

All five teams from Kelowna and District Senior B Softball League are entered. Four will see action tonight when the tournament gets under way.

At 7:30 p.m., the Rutland Rovers play the Willow Inn Willows while at 9 p.m., the Royal Anne Royals square off against Vernon. The fifth team in the league, Kelowna Carlings, play their opening game Saturday against the Kamloops O'Keefe's. Game time is 9:30 a.m.

In all, a total of 18 games will be played in the double-knockout tourney, the final scheduled for Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

Other games scheduled Saturday see the Kamloops LeLands tangle North Vancouver at 11 a.m. and Prince George meet Calgary at 12:30 p.m. Six other games are on tap for Saturday, each one beginning immediately after completion of the preceding game.

The final game of the day is expected to begin at 9:30 p.m. Teams move back into action Sunday at 9:30 a.m. and will continue play until the final game that evening.

Local teams have not done well in tournament play this year but all the clubs are looking ahead to this weekend's event with extreme optimism.

The Royals and Rovers, well ahead in league standings, will probably be favored among the Okanagan entries. The Royals have a dismal record in tourney play but will have a full staff, something they haven't enjoyed previously, for this weekend.

The Rovers enjoy a much better record in playoff and tournament play as do the Carlings and Willows. But the bulk of the opposition among local teams will come not from one another, but from the visiting teams.

Prince George is the defending champion while the two Kamloops teams are always tough. North Vancouver is on a level with Prince George and the two Kamloops clubs while Calgary, as last year, is something of an unknown quantity. Teams from the Kelowna softball circuit have the occasional opportunity to see the B.C. teams in action but rarely venture into Alberta where Calgary plays the majority of their softball. One advantage has the visiting clubs squaring off against each other in the opening games.

Marichal Stops Cardinals And Ends Winning Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Juan Marichal has finally caught up to St. Louis Cardinals.

Just before the San Francisco ace blanked the Cards 3-0 Thursday night and ended his lifetime record against them at 15-15, H e r m a n Franks confirmed reports that he would retire if they don't win the National League pennant.

The Giants are in fourth place, 13 games behind St. Louis, after ending the Cards' winning streak at six games.

Elsewhere, Atlanta Braves walloped Houston Astros 7-1 and New York Mets downed Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0. Los Angeles Dodgers was rained out at Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phillies and Chicago Cubs were not scheduled.

Marichal, the NL's top winner, ran his record to 17-4 with a four-hitter and even drove in a run with a second-inning single. He retired 17 batters in order over one stretch until Lou Brock singled to open the ninth.

SCORE ON SINGLES

The Giants scored twice off Steve Carlton in the second on singles by Willie Mays, Jim Hart, Hal Lanier and Marichal. They added a run in the eighth when Mays walked, stole second and scored on a single by Jesus Alou.

The Cardinals saw their league lead chopped to nine games when second-place Atlanta beat Houston behind the hitting of Tommie Aaron and Pat Jarvis' two-hit pitching.

Aaron broke a 1-1 tie with a bases-loaded triple in the third inning off Dave Giusti and knocked in another run with a single in the eighth. Not to be outdone, big brother Hank singled home a run in the ninth.

Jarvis, 10-6, has never lost to the Astros and beat them for the fifth time. He allowed singles by Hector Torres in the first and Doug Rader in the seventh.

Seaver tied a club record with his fourth shutout of the season as the Mets hopped back over Los Angeles and Pittsburgh into sixth place. Al Jackson did it in 1962. Carl Willey in 1963 and Jerry Kosman has already done it this year.

LBJ Looks For 'Freedom' In Leaving White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asked recently what he looked forward to most in retirement, Lyndon Johnson answered quickly: "Freedom, I guess."

"Freedom," the president told his visitor in a characteristic combination of plaintive and combative tones, "to be my own man."

"To hike in the pastures, 14 or 15 miles a day with no phones and no reporters. To sleep under the stars. To be able to take my wife by the hand and walk through the woods without 40 Secret Service men around."

"I look forward to the day when the press won't give a damn about me as copy when I can walk in and get a beer and a hamburger somewhere without it being regarded as outrageous."

He looks forward to his Texas ranch to teaching and lecturing, to conducting a vast study of the presidency, to collecting his papers, to spending more time with his family, to being stimulated by the young.

It is a pretty picture. But how, one might seriously ask, are you going to keep him down on the farm after he's seen all that power?

Decompression is a problem faced by every outgoing president but may be more acute with a man as intense as Lyndon Johnson, who puts in 16 to 18 hours a day on the job, virtually to the exclusion of all else, who has seen or held the inner core of power so long as Senate minority leader, majority leader, vice-president and president.

HE DOESN'T KNOW Johnson tells friends he doesn't know what his decompression period will be like. "All I know," he says, "is that I don't have that feeling now. There was never enough time in my life to do everything I wanted to do. My judgment is that I'll have more to do than I'll have time for right up to the day they bury me."

Mrs. Johnson is hopeful but less certain. "There will be times, I suppose, when the unstructured and unprogrammed days will seem like a vacuum," she said during an interview.

"Actually, I expected the decompression stage to set in right after he withdrew as a candidate for re-election March 31, but it hasn't not up to now."

"There is bound to be some sort of a valley but he has always found enough things he's able to hitch his vitality and drive to. In the time I've known him, he has always tried to push his physical and mental capacity a little beyond his reach. He was always tackling something that almost was a little too hard."

Mrs. Johnson's glance roamed down below to the executive office wing of the White House.

MISS THE ACTION "I think," said Mrs. Johnson, "the president will miss the constant contact and conversations with people in government. He'll miss the removal from the play of swords and the sharpening of wits. I know I shall."

"He'll have a terrible time in decompression," said a White House assistant who sees the president daily.

"What's he going to do for big problems to work on? He'll miss the power on the high levels along with the small things like the planes and the trains and the easily arranged conveniences, although ex-presidents aren't exactly bereft."

An old friend and member of Lyndon Johnson's cabinet said: "I know life ahead looks interesting to him, especially, if along with his time on the ranch, his teaching and writing, the new president, regardless of party, makes some occasional use of him."

It is now almost four months since Lyndon Johnson startled the world with his announcement that, in the hope of bringing North Vietnam to the peace table and reducing divisiveness in the United States he would not seek another term in the White House.

NO REGRETS Since then, he has told visitors, he has had no reason to regret that decision.

There were no other reasons for his withdrawal, he has said, except: "Well, I'm almost 60. I want to know my children better."

Would he, asked one visitor, have run again if there had not been the two major problems of the war and disunity at home? "I think so," he said, "I probably would have."

His health, his history of heart trouble and his age were uppermost in Mrs. Johnson's mind as he wrestled with his decision.

Sources close to the president are certain it was Mrs. Johnson who was most important in helping him make up his mind. It is said that the job requires him still to make as many as 100 decisions a day.

Judging by his present pace, he is leaving like an old gunslinger, backing out of the saloon, shooting from both hips, right up to the swinging doors. He is not going quietly.

A Few Hundred Civilians Remain In Once-Bustling Port Harcourt

PORT HARCOURT (AP) — Only several hundred civilians remain in this key Nigerian port city, which once had 300,000 inhabitants including a large expatriate community.

Everyone else has fled into the swampy bush of the surrounding state, or northward into shrinking Biafra—carrying whatever is movable.

Those remaining have been assigned to encampment areas, looked after by sort of "street captains" who log their movements.

For Port Harcourt now is the military headquarters for Col. Benjamin Adekunle's 3rd Marine Battalion, which controls the coastline and holds a steady front against Biafra's under-side.

GUARD AIRPORT Soldiers with red octopus shoulder patches guard the vital airport, strewn with wreckage of the rebels' B-26s, DC-3s, and helicopters. In the distance are smoke columns of crude oil pipelines and wells, blown up by retreating Biafrans and burning un checked for months.

Army headquarters is the Shell BP compound, where the emergency power supply accounts for the only electricity and water—and cold beer—in town. Cigarettes—if you can get them—cost $3.40 a pack.

The Presidential Hotel looks almost ready for guests, though the flowers have wilted from lack of watering. Much of the vegetation in Port Harcourt—known as the garden city—looks more natural, as grass and bushes grow unclipped.

Argonauts unleashed a powerful offensive to defeat Hamilton 35-21 in an Eastern Football Conference exhibition game.

In an interlocking Canadian Football League pre-season contest, Saskatchewan Roughriders edged Montreal Alouettes 16-14.

A crowd of 22,023 at Canadian National Exhibition Stadium in Toronto saw Argonaut fullback Jim Dillard score two touchdowns. Quarterback Tom Wilkinson and flanker Bobby Taylor scored the others. Dave Mann kicked two field goals, a 70-yard snorter and converted the four touchdowns.

Tommy Joe Coffey collected 11 points for Hamilton on a touchdown, a field goal and two conversions. Willie Bothea and Bob Richardson scored the other Ticat touchdowns.

The Argonauts rattled the usually sturdy Hamilton defence for 203 yards on the ground and 332 passing. The Tiger-Cats responded with 61 yards rushing and 276 passing.

SHARE Q-BACK DUTIES Joe Zuger and Bill Redell shared quarterbacking duties for the Ticats while the Argos used Wally Gahler, Wilkinson and newcomer George Wilson.

A crowd of 12,728 in Regina watched as fullback Bill Goods picked up 10 points for the Roughriders on three field goals and a convert. Halfback Alan Ford scored the only Saskatchewan touchdown.

Montreal's Jim Long picked up eight points on two field goals, a single and a convert in a game dominated by the place kickers.

Mickey Sutton scored the only Montreal touchdown on a 13-yard pass from Carroll Williams.

Both teams employed two quarterbacks as Ron Lancaster and Rick Cassata performed for the Roughriders and Williams and Max Chobolan for the Alouettes.

BIDDING QUIZ

You have the following hand,
both sides vulnerable:

Spades—K-J-9-4, hearts—J-9-7-2, Diamonds—K-8, Clubs—6-4-3.

1. Your partner deals and bids One Club. What would you respond?

2. Your partner deals and bids One Heart, to which you respond Two Hearts. Partner then bids Three Diamonds. What would you bid now?

3. Your partner deals and bids One Heart, to which you respond Two Hearts. Partner then bids Three Clubs. What would you bid now?

4. Your partner deals and bids Three Hearts. What would you bid now?

5. Your left-hand opponent deals and bids One Heart. Your partner doubles and your right-hand opponent bids Four Hearts. What would you bid now?

1. One heart. In general, with two suits of equal strength, you respond in the higher ranking one, and on this basis you could argue that the proper response is one spade. However, this rule is subject to an important exception, to wit, the case where you have a weakish hand that you intend to bid only once before dropping out of the picture.

The advantage of responding one heart is that if partner has four-card length in either major suit, you are sure to discover the fit right away (since he will bid one spade if he lacks heart support). But if you respond one spade, you might never find the heart fit if partner has four of them.

2. Four hearts. Your partner is apparently trying to find out whether you have a minimum or maximum raise. His three diamond bid indicates a suit where he requires assistance, and your doubleton king fits the bill perfectly. Since your values have now been greatly increased by the diamond bid, you should happily accept the invitation to go to game by jumping to four hearts.

3. Three hearts. Here your hand drops in value and the chance of making game is materially decreased. Accordingly, you bid three hearts to tell partner that your raise was of the minimum class.

4. Four hearts. You don't raise to game because you expect partner to make ten tricks, but because you hope to stop the opponents from bidding five clubs or diamonds, which they seem likely to be able to make in view of your partner's preemptive bid. This tactic may very well succeed if the missing high-card strength is divided evenly.

5. Four spades. Since partner is marked with a singleton or void in hearts, you are very likely to make at least four spades. Of course you could double four hearts and beat it one or two tricks, but four spades is far more likely to produce a better result.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Some adverse planetary influences afflict financial matters now, so be careful in buying, selling, budgeting, all monetary affairs. A mild day, generally, in which it would be wise to stick to routine and not expect too much from anybody or anything.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that, while the period between December 15th and February 15th should prove highly satisfactory where job and financial interests are concerned, you will, generally speaking, have to work a little harder than usual to achieve all that can be yours by this time next year. In September, you may receive an unexpected token of recognition for past efforts, and you will also find opportunities for advancing job-wise in late April, mid-May and June, but nothing will be handed to you on the proverbial silver platter. You'll have to work for all. In financial matters, aside from the aforementioned December 15th-February 15th period, your next best periods for increasing assets will occur during next May, June and July. But DO avoid extravagance and/or speculation in intervening months—especially during November and the first two weeks of December.

Personal affairs will be governed by generally good aspects during the coming year, with emphasis on romance in September, late December (a fine period for all Cancerians), in April and May; on travel in September, October, next February, May and June. If careful to avoid friction in close circles in early March and/or early May, you should find domestic concerns prospering happily.

A child born on this day will be endowed with the gifts required to make an excellent lawyer, teacher, doctor or nurse.

Pulp Workers Win Jobs Back

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five Prince George pulp workers who were dismissed three months ago when they held office in two local unions will get their jobs back as a result of a jurisdictional vote won Wednesday by the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada Union.

The Prince George Pulp and Paper Ltd. and Inter-Continental Pulp and B.C. Chemicals Ltd. plants favored the PPWC over the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers 344 to 129. There were 63 abstentions.

The five workers were Len Shankel, George Smith, Mickey Finnigan, Gerry Richardson and Noel Noble.

The PPWC now represents workers in eight localities in Nanaimo, Crofton, Prince Rupert, Woodfibre, Castlegar, Prince George, Gold River and Vancouver.

The international has nine locals in B.C.—Port Alberni, Port Alice, Port Mellon, Northwood, Prince George, Kamloops, Ocean Falls and Vancouver.

The Canadian union says it represents about 5,000 workers and the international lists 5,500.

MAGISTERIAL PROBE

'My Man' Claim 'Just A Hoax'

TORONTO (CP) — Vincent Alexander told a judicial inquiry into the conduct of two Toronto magistrates Thursday he attempted to deceive his associates into thinking he could fix court cases by referring to Magistrate Fred Bannan as "my man."

Alexander, free on bail pending trial on two charges of breaking and entering, admitted he wanted to be a "big shot" by letting his associates know he knew a couple of magistrates. Under cross-examination by Crown counsel Frank Callaghan, Alexander said Magistrate Bannan had never influenced the outcome of a court case.

Before he testified, Alexander pulled out a written statement prepared by his lawyer, David Humphrey, which read:

"I object on the grounds my answers might tend to incriminate me. I object to all, each and every one."

The inquiry, before Mr. Justice Campbell Grant of the Ontario Supreme Court, was called by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart to investigate the conduct of Magistrate Bannan and George Gardhouse. It is expected to conclude today and Mr. Justice Grant will report his findings to Mr. Wishart.

BANNON RESIGNED

Magistrate Bannan resigned when the inquiry opened Monday, admitting he had been "indiscreet" in continuing his association with Alexander, a former law client. The magistrates were relieved of court duties June 18 pending the outcome of the investigation.

Alexander, who has five convictions on charges ranging from shoplifting to auto theft, admitted that Magistrate Bannan had telephoned him last spring from Kitchener asking for a $1,000 loan.

"But I didn't give it to him because a little time later he didn't need it," Alexander said.

Alexander said he also referred to Magistrate Gardhouse in conversations, but added that although he had known him for years, "I don't talk to him or see him that often."

Earlier testimony indicated that Magistrate Bannan invested $1,000 in a land deal through a real-estate broker friend of Alexander's and split his $2,000 profit with Alexander.

Another Strike Faces Seaway

MONTREAL (CP) — Gilbert Gauthier, president of the Canadian Marine Officers' Union, claimed here a strike by the 1,200 officers in the union could come late in August if talks this week with the Canadian Lake Carriers Association prove fruitless.

A strike by the union would paralyze Canada's 200-vessel inland fleet and halt wheat and iron ore shipments through the St. Lawrence Seaway system.

Mr. Gauthier said in an interview that his union's contract negotiations have not been affected by the just-ended 24-day strike of 1,250 seaway workers.

"I've taken a sounding among the membership and they're willing to take strike action if it comes to that."

Both the union and the association have been negotiating since April for a new contract to replace the one that expired June 1. A strike had been set for mid-July before it was announced that talks will resume here Thursday.

WOULD DELAY STRIKE

Mr. Gauthier said that if nothing is accomplished this week, the dispute may move before a conciliation board and thus strike action would be delayed until late August.

The main dispute with the 32-member association revolved about language used in the proposed contract.

It gave management a lot of room for interpretation and manoeuvrability and placed the union at a disadvantage, he said.

Talks under a government conciliation officer broke down a month ago with both the union and the association blaming each other for the collapse.

The union has said there is disagreement over wages, pensions, statutory holidays and vacations.

Rhodesia Appears Heading For Dramatic Change Over

SALISBURY (Reuters) —

Rhodesia now is appearing to be steering toward its most dramatic move since the 1965 seizure of independence from Britain—the declaration of a republic.

The governing Rhodesian Front party of Prime Minister Ian Smith proposed replacing the Queen as Rhodesian head of state with a republican leader.

The constitutional change still is only a suggestion, which Rhodesians will have a choice to approve or throw out in a referendum.

But Smith should have little difficulty in getting it rubber-stamped by the special constitutional party congress scheduled to meet here in September.

The front's new plan would ensure continued white-dominated rule in the foreseeable future. It was clearly a firm step to the right that seemed sure to dampen down most criticism of Smith's "soft" policies from the party's far right.

PARITY NOT MENTIONED

Although it did provide for a continuing Negro share in government, there was no mention in the plan of eventual white-black parity, an ideal set forward in a draft constitution recommended in April by a government commission.

Most political observers saw the plan as weakening the slender remaining chances of a negotiated settlement with Britain, but the Rhodesia Herald newspaper saw some hope it did not slam the door on future talks.

It said that although British Prime Minister Wilson would not view the proposals favorably he might be persuaded to reopen negotiations on them.

In an editorial headed "still one eye on Britain" the paper said: "The retention of the African strength in the legislature should be regarded as a victory for sweet reasonableness in the party. . . . No one should underestimate the pressures Mr. Smith must have been under to cut back on African representation."

In the first phase of the constitution, there would be 23 members—10 Negroes, 10 whites and three nominated persons. In a lower house of 68, 18 would be elected from the common roll and could be people of any race, and 1 would be Negroes.

After five years, three provincial councils—one European, one Mashona and one Matabele—the two major Negro tribes—would be set up but Parliament would remain overlord, controlling internal affairs, defence, finance, security, and law and order.
